GERMAN DRIVE SHATTERED

London, July 16.—The German drive was completely shattered east of Rheims, telegraphs the Reuter correspondent at French field headquarters. The enemy planned a twelve-mile advance on the first day. German losses along the Marne are appalling.

65,000 MAY JOIN LYNN STRIKERS

Sympathetic Walkout Likely at Schenectady and Other General Electric Plants

The latest developments in the General Electric strike at Lynn are:

Fifteen iron molders, the only workers left, walked out, virtually tying up the plant.

Sixty-five thousand workers in the Schenectady, Pittsfield and Fort Wayne, Ind., plants threaten to walk out in a sympathetic strike.

General Manager Walter C. Fish charges the workers with lack of patriotism in delaying work on government contracts. He says the workers have not yet told the company what they want.

Charles D. Keavney, organizer of the electrical workers, denies the workers are unpatriotic. He says the company knows the workers' struck for the right to organize. He says the workers' demands will be presented to the company when they get them prepared.

Meanwhile, Henry Skeffington, Federal conciliator, and other agents from the Department of Commerce

GEN. CADORNA IS ON LEAVE, NOT DISMISSED

New York, July 16.—Recent cabled dispatches announcing that General Cadorna, General Poro and General Capello had been dismissed from the Italian army for the disaster on the Isonzo river front last Autumn are inaccurate, according to a statement issued today by Dr. Felice Ferrero, director of the Italian bureau of information. Rome has reported, through the Italian embassy at Washington, that the officers have been granted leave of absence, but that they retain their rank and pay.

CAMBRIDGE YOUTH MISSING IN ACTION

Missing in action in the fate of Private David E. Proctor, nineteen years old, a member of the famous 5th Regiment of Marines, according to information received by his father, David B. Initial Gains Are the Smallest of Any German Drive

By ERNEST P. ORR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, July 16.—The first day of the German offensive on the Marne-Champagne front resulted in the smallest gains of any offensive during the war.

The French were not taken by surprise and ceded ground only in the regions of Souain, Dormans and Reuilly.

Although the German drive was marked by violent assaults, the French were prepared for it all along the line.

A famous war-mutilated French general directed the French defence in the Champagne district.

STEAMSHIPS IN CRASH AT SEA; CREWS SAFE

Help Arrives Quickly After Collision of San Kacingo and Wossbereyk

By International News Service.

An Atlantic Port, July 16.—A large motor ship arriving here today from a Danish port brought word of a collision at sea between the steamships Wossbereyk and the San Kacingo.

Although in a sinking condition the San Kacingo took all the crew from the Wossbereyk and proceeded toward an Atlantic port. Two steamers, answering wireless calls, were standing by the Wossbereyk, when last seen. It is believed no lives were lost.

The San Kacingo, it is said, was formerly owned by the Mallory line and the Wossbereyk by the Holland line.

BRIDE OF MAN, 75, NOW CALLS HIM BIGAMIST

Abington, July 16.—Mrs. Ella Fay, sixty, has applied for an anullment of her marriage to Christopher J. Knight, seventy-five, whom she married February 13. She alleges that he has another wife living in Gardiner, Me. Mrs. Fay says that she got into communication with Wife Number One and was told by the latter that she could have Knight, but that she could not have his Civil War pension. He disappeared from Abington after living with his new wife for a month, it is said.

200 BROCKTON STRIKERS FIND WORK ELSEWHERE

Brockton, July 16.—More than 200 shoe cutters, members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, have left this city to take other jobs following a refusal today of the Shoe Manufacturers Association to treat with the men on strike.

HUB NURSE WOUNDED BY BOMB

Miss Jane Jeffery, Dorchester, One of Eleven Victims of German Attack on Hospital

By International News Service.

Paris, July 16.—Two men were killed and nine persons, including Miss Jane Jeffery, an American nurse, were wounded, when German airmen bombed an American Red Cross hospital at Jouy.

Several operations were being performed when the attack began. The physicians and nurses stuck to their posts and went ahead with the work.

Scores of wounded were in the hospital.

The Jane Jeffery mentioned as wounded in France is the niece of James Baldwin of No. 36 Belleview street, Dorchester.

Miss Jeffery left for the front last September. She was born in Newmarket, England, but came to this country fifteen years ago and trained her as a nurse. She is a graduate of the Massachusetts State Hospital at Taunton and of the Rhode Island State Hospital in Providence, and has been employed as a nurse by Dr. Stedman and Dr. Chauncy of Brookline.

AMERICANS NEED NO PASSPORTS IN CANADA

No passports are required by American citizens who wish to enter Canada. But certain conditions should be observed by travelers, in the interest of their own convenience, according to J. T. Humphrey, British vice-consul here. Persons born in enemy countries, who claim American citizenship, should bring with them evidence of their citizenship, endorsed by a British consul.

NEW MOVE BY DOWD TO GET POLICE JOB BACK

Another step was taken today in the appeal by former Patrolman Thomas W. Dowd of Revere from his discharge from the department by Mayor Alfred S. VICTORY SURE, SAYS CAPITAL

War Department Chiefs Confident German Offensive Will Be Smashed

By International News Service.

Washington, July 16.—Supremely confident of final triumph of the great battle now in progress in France, War Department officials today were piecing out of the scanty dispatches available the story of the struggle.

The outcome still remains in doubt. It will be so for several days very likely; but the military experts are unanimous in their belief that the Germans are being held and that their losses to date in this, their fifth effort to win victory by the sword, have been larger than in any previous attempt.

Not alone in killed and wounded are these losses measured, but, due to the various counter-attacks, it is evident that they have lost in prisoners a record-breaking number of shock troops.

The Regular Army divisions, with the Marines, are bearing the brunt of the fighting. It is understood here. These troops comprise among the best in our service, and they have shown that they have outclassed the picked German shock troops by the manner in which they have thrown back the various attacks and then, counter-attacking, have been able to recover all lost ground and to take prisoners and war materials as they moved on.

MAY SMASH THE OFFENSIVE.

One reason for the intense interest in the present struggle is the belief

Kaiser's Crack Legions Are Defeated by Yankee Boys

American troops on vital sectors of the Marne River front have again met the Kaiser's crack legions in battle and overwhelmingly defeated them.

A German division that succeeded in crossing the Marne and advancing from two to three miles was hurled back to the northern bank of the stream by an American counter-attack, losing from 1,000 to 1,500 prisoners.

At Vaux, west of Chateau Thierry, the Americans broke up a German assault and advanced their lines.

The Americans bore a big share in stemming the fifth German offensive and in stopping the Germans on the road to Paris.

AMERICAN PRESS FOILED PLOTS OF GERMANS

Von Bernstorff and Aids Intended to Buy Up Papers All Through the Country

By International News Service.

New York, July 16.—The honesty and patriotism of the American press frustrated a scheme by former German Ambassador Von Bernstorff, Captain Boy-Ed and their fellow plotters to subsidize newspapers for Wilhelmstrasse in every part of the United States, it was learned today from a Pittsburgh Federal official here.

The same clique of German propagandists who are alleged to have purchased through Dr. Edward H. Rumely the New York Evening Mail and another paper outside of New York, which is as yet not named, tried to get control of newspapers in thirty of the largest cities of the country, it was stated.

In every instance, with the two exceptions, the Federal official said, Von Bernstorff and his followers ran up against the honesty and patriotism of the American press.

An important official of the army intelligence organization said that in a short time a complete exposure of the ramifications of the German campaign for the corruption of American journalism would be forthcoming.

The Grand Jury inquiry into the Evening Mail indictment continued today.

PHONE GIRL WITNESS AT O'LEARY TRIAL

New York, July 16.—Freda Schulte, telephone operator and file clerk in the office of John J. O'Leary, was the principal witness today in the trial of O'Leary on a charge of conspiracy to aid his brother Jeremiah to escape. Miss Schulte stated that on the morning of May 7 last, the day Jeremiah O'Leary suddenly left New York, she found John J. in the office when she arrived at work between 8 and 9:30 o'clock. In the testimony of Jeremiah's friend Lyons, he, John and Jeremiah were together until 10 o'clock on that morning.

PARIS GOES WILD OVER YANKEE VICTORY

Papers Use Page-Wide Cartoons to Describe Triumph of Yankee Doughboys.

Paris, July 16.—The Parisian press celebrates with wild acclaim the American victory over Ludendorff's best between Reuily and Dormans on the Marne.

Page-wide cartoons on many of the newspapers show the American doughboys smashing German skulls, bayonetting leaping Huns, and generally treating rough the Kaiser's own. These cartoons were drawn from telegraphed accounts of the American fighting, which according to the captions, "covered the front of ten miles to a depth of six feet with corpses."

The Americans have displayed a tigerish valor," said Colonel Dethomason, in speaking of the work done by Uncle Sam's boys, on that historic piece of ground west of Rheims where Ludendorff's picked shock troops strode forward on a ten-mile front to a depth of six miles, only to find defeat, bitter and decisive, awaiting them.

The colonel stated that German journalists will now regret the snobbish sneers with which they accepted by Uncle Sam's boys, on that historic piece of ground west of Rheims where Ludendorff's picked shock troops strode forward on a ten-mile front to a depth of six miles, only to find defeat, bitter and decisive, awaiting them.

The colonel stated that German journalists will now regret the snobbish sneers with which they accepted the reports of an American force overseas.

This recent dash of the newly-added fighters to the columns of the Allies has destroyed the value of an attack, he pointing out, which otherwise had assumed dangerous initial success.

"SLACKER" FOUND HIDING IN A SALEM CELLAR

Salem, July 16.—Evan Monets, twenty-five, of Berlin, N. H., accused of failing to appear before his draft board when notified, was arrested here today in a cellar at No. 40 Turner street. He had been living there the past three months. He will be turned over to the officials from New Hampshire.

U. S. TROOPS WIN BACK ALL LOST POSITIONS

London, July 16 (1 p. m.). — The Americans between Fossoy and Crazancy have retaken all their former positions from the Germans on the southern bank of the Marne River, the International News Service learned this afternoon from an authoritative source.

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

The titanic battle which burst forth with volcanic fury on the fifty-mile Marne-Champagne front, with the opening of the fifth German offensive, was still raging today.

The violence of the combat had died down at some points, but where the infantry forces were not locked in death grips, terrific artillery duels were rocking earth and sky.

The allied lines are holding at all points.

The Americans, by a series of savage counter assaults, south of the Marne, have hurled the Germans across to the northern bank of the stream, occupying all of their old positions, according to an unofficial report from London this afternoon.

Appalling losses marked the first day of the new German drive. The Germans had set out to break through between Chateau Thierry and the Argonne forest, but the maximum of their gain was about three miles and the major part of the terrain gained at frightful cost was wrenched from them by smashing counter blows, delivered by the French, Americans and Italians.

South of the Marne the Germans were able to establish their line through St. Agnan, La Chappelle, Monthodon and the southern fringe of Bouquigny wood. This is from two to three miles south of the river.

To the north of the Marne, in the district between the river and Theims, the Germans redoubled their efforts to extend the slight gain they had scored up until late Monday afternoon. They hurled themselves in vain against the allied resistance.

A bitter struggle developed around Chatillon-Sur-Marne, where the exhausted German hordes had to withstand stern counter-assaults after their direct attacks had failed.

East of Rheims, in the Champagne, where the German casualties were frightfully heavy, two strong German assaults were delivered between Prunay and Souain, the infantry being supported by tanks. The Teutons were thrown back except at one point, where they succeeded in penetrating a piece of wooded ground near Prunay.

Over the greater part of the Champagne region the Germans fought themselves into such an utter state of weariness that they could not renew their pressure.

Thirty-five German divisions were massed on the Marne River, between Chateau Thierry and Dormans, facing the Americans. Thirty of the German divisions on this and other parts of the wide battle zone were identified as parts of the reserve army of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, the German commander on the Flanders front.

This indicated that the present offensive was expected to be the supreme German effort and that the other parts of the Western front had been drained of all available men to give the latest German thrust the utmost momentum.

ANOTHER BIG FAILURE.

It had been known that Rupprecht had a large number of reserve troops, but it was expected that they would be used in another dash for the Channel ports. Evidently the German high command elected to use them for another effort to break through to Paris.

Documentary evidence captured from German prisoners shows that the Germans hoped to break through to Epernay and Chalons in the first dash of their new drive. News says expectations fallen more flat.

As the situation stood today the fifth German drive may be characterized as another German failure.

Although the Marne-Champagne offensive was undertaken with great vigor than has marked any of the preceding four drives on the western front this year, less ground was gained on the first day than in any of the previous strokes.

If events show that Ludendorff's new attempt proves another fiasco such as marked the recent ill-started Austro-Hungarian blow in Italy, it will be a hard blow to German and Austro-Hungarian morale.

MAY HAVE RESERVES.

The new offensive is not over. The German high command will not give up so easily. The Germans may have large masses of reserves in the rear, and it is known that they are supplied with enormous masses of artillery. It will be several days before it can be seen how the first phase of the new grand operations is decisive to develop.

It is interesting to note how the first day of the German offensive has compared with the others this year.

On March 21, when the Germans attacked on a fifty-mile front on the Picardy front, they gained slightly more than three miles the first day.

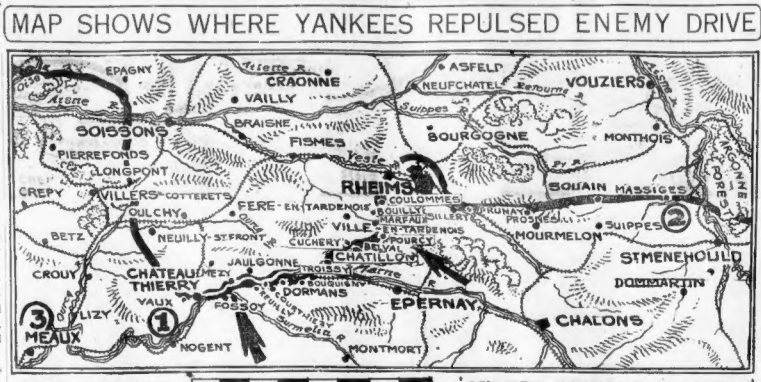
On April 9, when the Flanders offensive was begun on a 20-mile front, the Teutons made four miles on the initial day.

On May 27 when the Aisne-Marne blow fell over a 25-mile front the Germans advanced five miles the first day.

On June 9, when the Germans struck between Montdidier and the Aisne, the first day's fighting set them forward three miles.

Thus the failure of the present offensive can be measured.

MAP SHOWS WHERE YANKEES REPULSED ENEMY DRIVE



Nos. 1 and 2 show the points between which the Germans launched their new drive or drives as latest reports indicate, there being one on either side of Rheims. Arrow points to where the Teutons crossed the River Marne and were promptly driven back to the right or northern bank by the Americans. No. 3 shows Meaux, twenty-five miles southeast of Chateau-Thierry, which German naval guns are bombarding. South of Rheims Pourcy, the point of deepest penetration by the German drive, estimated at about four miles. Various other towns and villages pictured by the Teutons as reported from London are indicated on the map.

Two German Armies Continue Assaults, but Great Drive Seems Failure

By EARLE C. REEVES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, July 16 (1 p. m.).—The great battle of the Marne-Champagne front is still raging, with General von Below's and General von Bothm's German armies continuing their assaults.

It is difficult to say whether or not the whole offensive has been repulsed, but the evidence at hand shows that it was intended for Germany's biggest drive and was not a diversion.

Thirty German divisions have already been identified, mostly from the army of the Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

Rheims is still held by the French.

HEAVY ENEMY LOSSES.

The German attacks have been repulsed with the heaviest possible losses.

The situation on the allies' side is distinctly good and the French are entirely satisfied with it.

East of Rheims two German attacks were made with tanks in the sectors of Souain and Prunay. In the latter district a wood was captured; elsewhere the Germans were repulsed.

The line of resistance from one to two miles behind the first trenches is everywhere intact east of Rheims. West of Rheims the two main German attacks were directed:

1—Down the Marne.

2—Due south of Dormans.

THREW OVER SIX BRIDGES.

The Germans threw six pontoon bridges across the Marne between Dormans and Reuilly on a four-mile front.

The capture of a German airplane map showed that one of the enemy's chief attacks was to be directed down the Marne in the direction of Epernay.

Thirty-five divisions, 420,000 men, were employed by the Germans in their attack between Chateau Thierry and Dormans (ten miles) on the Marne river, it was learned here today. The Germans were able to get to the southern bank on a front of less than four miles, between Dormans and Jaulgonney. The greatest depth attained by the Germans was two miles.

By American counter-attacks in this sector, the Germans were driven back across the Marne.

PLANNED TO DRIVE WEDGE.

The Germans planned to drive a wedge between Thierry, seize Montmirail and to several the Chalons-Rheims railway near Suippes (in Champagne district) during the first day of the drive.

By the second day they had expected to occupy Chalons, after seizing Champagne mountain.

The German gains created no uneasiness here. It was felt certain that the Germans would be unable to push their arrow-head to Montmirail.

Between Dormans and Rheims there was fighting equalling in ferocity the struggle in Champagne. But the allied line in this zone was bent only about two and one-half miles.

(Paris reported in an earlier dispatch that the Germans had been able to advance only 800 yards between Rheims and Dormans and that they were being driven back by the France-Italian counter-attacks.)

The Italians are defending Mont Eligny (southwest of Rheims), tenaciously.

Before Souain (Champagne), one German division suffered such losses that it had to be withdrawn. Others had to be withdrawn elsewhere for the same reason.

Communication with Rheims is now limited to one railway—that which runs through Epernay.

Military critics point out that the Germans may attempt to extend their attacking front to the Argonne forest, but the main drive has already proved abortive.

Fury of the Teutons' Assaults Now Reported As Slightly Abating

By International News Service.

Paris, July 16.—After a burst of fighting late yesterday which was marked by extreme violence, the intensity of the struggle on the Champagne front slowed down, according to a communique issued by the French War Office today.

There was savage fighting south of the Marne River late yesterday, with the French and Americans resisting the German shocks valorously.

Several counter attacks were made against the Germans.

ONLY SLIGHT GAINS.

South of the Marne the Germans were not able to advance their line beyond St. Agnan, La Chapelle, Monthodon and the southern fringe of Bouquigny forest.

The district around Chatillon-sur-Marne (between the Marne and Rheims) was the scene of a furious struggle, the germans making repeated attacks.

The French and Americans have captured many prisoners.

In the battle also between Rheims and the Marne River the Germans made desperate but unsuccessful efforts to penetrate the French defensive zone.

The text of the War Office communique follows:

"The battle has continued with great violence, the Germans launching heavy attacks between Chateau Thierry and Rheims.

"The struggle has been especially violent in the region of the Marne and in the sector of Chatillon.

SHARP COUNTER ASSAULTS.

"Vigorous counter attacks have been delivered many times by the French and Americans who are resisting the enemy with the utmost determination.

"South of the Marne, the Germans were not able to extend their lines further than St. Agnan, La Chapelle, Monthodon and the southern part of Bouquigny wood. In the fighting in this zone, more than 1,000 prisoners were captured by the French.

"The French still hold Marcuil Le Poet (on the Marne), which is south of Chatillon.

"The enemy's attempts to advance were held up in the outskirts of Chatillon, north of the Marne, and southeast of Redemat wood.

ENORMOUS CASUALTY ROLL.

"The German attacks delivered in this zone last night failed to make any change in the battle positions.

"East of Rheims the fighting was very violent, but despite his attacks on Monday and Monday night the Germans were not able to penetrate the defensive zones which pass through Prunay (Champagne district), south of the wooded area as far as the sector of Suippes, north of Souain. The French positions have been held intact.

"The German losses on Monday were enormous."

Four Divisions Cut Up; One Is Annihilated by Fire of Allied Defences

By ERNEST P. ORR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, July 16.—Terrific losses marked the fifth German offensive on the Marne-Champagne front, which began yesterday morning.

Before noon on Monday four German divisions that attacked the French, American and Italian lines between Chateau Thierry and the Aisne forest, had been cut up and one was completely annihilated.

The all-day battle on Monday, in which Americans gained distinction by throwing the Germans back across the Marne River, was followed by violent artillery duels.

GUNS HEARD IN PARIS.

All night long many residents of Paris remained upon the roofs to listen to the thunder of the guns fifty miles away and watching the lightning-like flashes in the sky.

The German made a few insignificant gains, but in practically every instance were thrown back to their old positions.

Between Dormans, on the Marne River, and Rheims, the Franco-Italian forces lost only 500 yards at the greatest depth, but they immediately launched a series of savage counter-assaults and at latest reports were re-winning all they had been compelled to give up.

The French commanders, knowing in advance of the immense offensive, "jumped" the German artillery an hour before the bombardment.

Hard fighting developed east of Rheims in the sector of Souain. There the fiercest fighting in front of the French positions and the French entanglements were piled high with German corpses.

The allied artillery and machine gun fire played havoc with Ludendorff's columns everywhere.

AMERICANS ACCLAIMED.

The Parisian press today wildly acclaimed the American victory between Reuilly and Dormans (on the southern bank of the Marne), where Ludendorff's best troops, advancing on a six-mile front to the principal attack west of Rheims, were driven back.

"The Americans fought with the valor of tigers," declared Colonel De Thomasson. He added that the German journalists would ever regret the snobbish sneers at the Americans' fighting qualities.

"The magnificent Americans saved what would have been a dangerous initial success," concluded the officer.

All of the Paris newspapers carry page-wide cartoons of Americans bayoneting and smashing Boche skulls with the butts of their rifles—the papers getting the idea from a telegraphed description of the American fighting. Which covered a front of ten miles to a depth of six miles with German corpses."

German Prisoners and Guns Are Taken in Raid by British

London, July 16.—The British have again improved their line at Villers-Bretonneux, the War Office announced today. In a British raid near Hebuterne thirty German prisoners were captured. Twelve German machine guns were taken. The War Office report follows:

"New Zealand troops successfully carried out a raid near Hebuterne yesterday, capturing thirty prisoners and twelve machine guns. During the night the British further improved their lines at Villers-Bretonneux, after sharp fighting.

"There was artillery activity southwest of Albert and at points on the northern section of the British front."

BIG MACKEREL CATCH KNOCKS PRICE DOWN

Heavy mackerel receipts today, on top of the same yesterday, drove the wholesale price down at the Fish wharf in South Boston.

Fresh mackerel sold at 3½ cents per pound, wholesale, against 12½ cents yesterday and 18 Saturday. That was a drop of 5½ cents in two business days.

Mackerel seiners reported fish running plentifully on the south shoal, south of Cape Cod, but in small schools.

450 AMERICAN PLANES READY FOR BATTLE

Aircraft Service Now a Real War Factor Under Direction of General Kenly

By International News Service.

Washington, July 16.—America's aircraft service is at last becoming a potential force in the war. This was admitted today by members of the Senate committee, which for two months has been investigating the air program. Planes now are being constructed rapidly and they embody all of the improvements which experience on the other side has shown to be necessary.

According to the latest reports from the War Department, 450 American built battle planes had been sent abroad or delivered at ports for shipment on July 5, while on the same date 2,614 Liberty motors had been delivered ready for use.

This increasing efficiency, the records show, is due entirely to the efficiency of Major-General William L. Kenly, brought back from France and detailed as chief of the air service. Kenly, with a wonderful record as an artillery officer behind him, made in the Philippines and in France, has put up-to-date methods in effect in the service.

He has made it possible for all ground officers attached to the aerial service to learn to fly. This is believed preliminary to making it obligatory that officers attached to the air service shall in reality be flying officers.

He has brought back from "over there" officers who have had actual flying experience in the face of the enemy to counsel with their colleagues here and advise how to get the best results. Those now here are Major Cushman A. Rice, who was in command of all of the American flying units on the British front during the battle of the Somme and the fourth German drive; Captain Cheuto Johnson of the Lafayette Escadrille, Captain Kelly, formerly of the Royal Flying Corps, now of the American Army, and Lieutenants Jones, Wilcox and Wells, who were transferred from the Lafayett Escadrille to the American forces.

WASHINGTON IS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Army Officials Foresee Complete Breakdown of Teuton Offensive

of army experts here—American as well as entente—that the battle which marks the Germans held without appreciable gaining of ground, or even thrown back in their tracks, will mean the breaking down of the German offensive.

Officers say that if may not be that this effort will mark that point. They do not know whether General Foch has sufficient men available to make the sacrifice necessary to gain that point and at the same time retain sufficient forces to protect all other parts of his long line.

But the day is certain to come—and the officers are hopeful that it may be in the present struggle—when the German offensive will crumble to bits on the defences of the entente. And that will mark the turning point in the war, these military experts explain, as the Germans must inevitably lose morale the moment they are forced to assume the defensive.

MAY SHIFT TO THE NORTH.

There are understood here to be a few British, many French and American and several regiments of Italian troops engaged in the present attempt. It is believed that the Teuton assault will spread to the north, where the British and Belgian armies are holding the line.

It was pointed out that the real reason why the Germans made their present effort where they did undoubtedly was due to their belief that the lines there were not strongly held. And in this very connection officers who have closely followed the situation declare that General Foch outguessed the German high command. There was not the slightest element of surprise in the present assault. It was expected. Where there was, generalissimo expected, and he had his various units properly disposed to handle the onslaught.

CHANNEL PORTS SAFE.

Should the Germans be unable to gain ground toward Paris, they undoubtedly will renew their drive on the Channel ports. British army officers here, who are in every way familiar with the general situation, assert that this drive is certain to prove futile. By widespread "nibbling" operations the British army has straightened out its line at all points and is ready to meet any onset in force.

There was a marked atmosphere of optimism at the White House as the day wore on. The feeling that the German offensive had been checked at the Channel ports was in every one apparent. President Wilson remained up until after midnight scanning dispatches from the front, and was up before his customary hour today to learn the new developments. He was said to be elated over the entire situation.

OFFICIAL REPORTS COMING IN.

Press accounts of yesterday's fighting were confirmed in dispatches received today from General Pershing and General Bliss, the War Department announced. American troops west of Surmelin, these dispatches state, counter attacked, captured prisoners, established and are holding their advanced positions. The American barrage in many places prevented the advance of the German infantry.

Full reports covering the entire front have not yet been received, said the War Department announcement, which characterized the general situation as satisfactory.

It was made plain that the War Department officials do not believe that the fury of the German assault has been yet spent.

"The first day in such a battle," says the statement, "is of course merely general advance action. The great resource of reserves and concentrated masses is still to be looked for."

Some only two or three of a kind. Sizes for misses and women.

There is only one way we can "get the best" of our inflexible automatic rule—and that is to mark prices so low at first that people will buy before automatic markdowns come. You can see that if we have to mark these dresses down automatically ¼ after 12 selling days, ⅓ after 18 selling days, ¾ after 24 selling days, and give them away after 30 selling days, we will lose money. Therefore these extremely low prices of $5, $7.50 and $8.95.

GRADUATES URGE $32,000,000 TECHNICAL SCHOOL FOR HARVARD

WANT ALL OF M'KAY FUND

Would Compete Rather Than Co-operate With Massachusetts Technology

A $32,000,000 technical school for Harvard, one of the greatest in the world.

Harvard to administer the Gordon McKay Endowment Fund, in competition with Technology, not in co-operation with it.

The sanctity of wills to be upheld.

These are the chief objects sought by prominent Boston and New York graduates of Harvard in opposing any further negotiations between Harvard and Technology toward a working plan under which Technology might have use of the McKay millions without violating the will terms.

These graduates prevailed upon the Harvard corporation—a point not generally known—to bring a bill in the Supreme Court to determine whether the Harvard-Tech agreement violated the testator's intentions.

DEFEND SANCTITY OF WILLS.

These graduates became aroused because in their opinion the sanctity of wills had been attacked, and also because they had heard of several cases in which prospective testators had declined to leave money to Harvard because of its transfer of the McKay fund practically to Technology.

These men regarded the action as a confession on the part of Harvard of its incapacity to fulfil the desired will of Mr. McKay, and also a breach of trust on the part of one of the oldest institutions of learning in the United States which by its earliest charter was bound to comply with the will of donors in dealing with gifts.

Mr. McKay died in 1902, and the first money received from his estate was in 1909. While living in Cambridge he formed a strong friendship with the late Professor Shaler, who for many years was at the head of the Lawrence Scientific School, which under his guidance made great progress in the field of science.

It was because of the work of Professor Shaler that Mr. McKay decided to found an endowment for instruction in "mechanical, civil and sanitary engineering, mining and metallurgy, and the promotion of research in these branches of applied science."

Mr. McKay selected Harvard as the medium of his benefaction, although he had previously been asked to consider Technology.

Referring to Mr. McKay's intentions, Judge De Courcy, who wrote the opinion of the Supreme Court, said:

"He selected as the trustee to carry out the purpose a great educational institution, one with whose ability adequately to carry out his plans he was familiar, and with whose historic name he had desired to associate his own in perpetual memory."

COMPETITION NECESSARY.

The opponents of union do not admit that the Institute of Technology covers the entire field of applied science, and that its methods are the last word in scientific education, but they believe that the decision of the Supreme Court has cleared the way for the establishment and maintenance of a great school for applied science at Harvard, which shall not be choked by any other educational institution in the United States, if in the entire world.

It is argued that while co-operation may be useful, competition is the law of nature and the basis of progress. For this reason it is claimed that it is the duty of Harvard to administer the McKay endowment in friendly competition with the Institute and not in combination or union with it. Any further attempts to bring about a union of the two institutions, it is said, will result in further litigation and injure the good name of Harvard.

Since the decision of the Supreme Court nearly a year ago frequent conferences have been held to see if a working agreement could be arrived at without conflicting with Mr. McKay's intentions. Very little progress has been made and Harvard is yet to conduct one of the greatest technical schools in the world.

ASKS $25,000 FOR LOST LOVE OF ACTOR HUSBAND

New York, July 16.—"I am fluttering between Heaven and H— and afraid to go."

The words were written to Charles Campbell, well-known actor, by Mrs. Josephine Saylor, now the widow, but then the wife of E. B. Saylor, former vice-president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, according to Mrs. Catherine Campbell, who now asks $25,000 of Mrs. Saylor for the alleged alienation of her husband's affections. In support of her action Mrs. Campbell has many letters written to her husband.

The Campbells were married in 1904 and lived happily until last September, when Mrs. Saylor's influence began to dominate the comedian, his wife claimed. She has been treated with "indifference and contempt" since, she alleged.

While unofficial opinion on the part of the weather man, given before the receipt of the official forecast, indicated that today was not going to be hot, people on the street began to disagree and took off their coats.

One of the hottest days of the year seemed to be Boston's fate, judging from the temperature at 9:30 a. m., when the thermometer, which had been hovering in the sixties most of the night, took an upward jump and hit the 77 mark, still going strong.

A humidity of 83, which is 17 degrees above normal, added to the discomfort of those who had to move about.

The early steamboats for the beaches indicated the prosperity, and the Nantasket boats were crowded. Cars for City Point, Revere and other shore resorts were well filled with perspiring persons and the benches on the Common were all occupied by men who kept one eye to windward for a cop, having in mind the anti-loafing law.

Before night, unless the wind turns into the East, Boston is going to be one of those places where only those who have to stay will remain.

Those who have been complaining for the past few weeks of the cold Summer will now begin to kick about the heat and the smile on the face of the country Summer hotel proprietor will broaden as the day progresses.

CHELSEA JUDGE TO AID REVERE VICE CRUSADE

The War Department has requested Judge Albert D. Rossen of Chelsea Court, which has jurisdiction over Revere Beach, to aid the "vice drive" to protect soldiers and sailors at the beach by committing to institutions persons, particularly women, brought into his court for disorderly conduct at the beach. This means jail sentences instead of fine or reprimand.

and Labor are expected to arrive at Lynn today to try and effect a settlement.

UNION CHARGES A TRICK.

Union officials declared today that paid agents of the company, representing themselves as soldiers invalided home, were trying to break up the strikers' organization by calling the strikers unpatriotic because they were holding up war contracts.

One man, who was accusing strikers of lack of patriotism at an overflow meeting in front of Odd Fellows Hall at Summer and Market streets, was making his audience angry. Trouble seemed imminent when a policeman ordered the man away.

From eighty to 100 girls clerks in the paymaster's department said that they would strike in sympathy as soon as they had the strikers' payroll made up today. Two hundred girl clerks in department offices were said to have similar plan to walk out.

THE STRIKERS' DEMANDS.

Labor leaders declare the following demands will be presented to Manager Fish either today or tomorrow:

Recognition of the right to organize; the same conditions as prevail at other plants of the company; an eight-hour day, the same prices as at other General Electric plants.

The strike is also a protest against the discharge of more than fifty employes for talking organized labor, it is said.

Throughout the morning labor headquarters was thronged with workmen making applications for admission into the unions of the various crafts.

Manager Fish gave out the following statement:

"It is a very serious thing for the country, the company and its employes when such employes go out during war times and stop production without notice and without first presenting reasons. This is the main issue. At this time I have no time to make a longer statement, but it is my intention to keep the papers fully informed as to the history and progress of the situation.

GIRL PICKETS ASSIGNED.

Fifty girl pickets took their places early today outside the half-dozen gates of the West Lynn and River Works plants. Two thousand striking employes gathered at the gates of the River Works to see whether any returned.

Sergeant Martin J. Murphy and a detail of police arrived early at this plant to see that there was no disorder, and instructed the crowd to keep moving and not congregate about the gates. The crowd took the order good naturedly and later dispersed.

Meetings of the strikers were held at 10 o'clock in various halls.

Word has been received by the strikers at Lynn that the employes of the company at Schenectady have voted to leave their work in a body unless the demands of the operatives at the Lynn plants are promptly granted.

The two plants employ approximately 40,000 hands and their continued operation is said to be necessary for the carrying out of the government's war program.

A picturesque incident was witnessed at the beginning of the strike. A number of employes in the different departments were undecided as to leaving their work when the signal was given by the union leaders.

GAINS ARE MADE BY LEADING STOCKS

Increases of Point or More by U. S. Steel and Others at New York

Opening strong and active, the New York market soon quieted down, but prices held firm. Union Pacific, 122; U. S. Steel, 101¼; General Motors, 151½; Midvale, 51¼; Marine pf., 96¼, and Sumatra Tobacco, 123½, showed gains of a point or more at the opening.

Rubber stocks were strong. U. S. Rubber, 63¾, was up 2, and Goodrich Rubber, 47, gained 1¾. U. S. Steel, after touching 101¾, receded to 101⅝, up ⅜. Crucible, after gaining ¾, fell back ¼ to 94¾; and General Motors gained 2¾, at 152, but lost all but a fraction.

Coppers and rails were inactive. Anaconda sold 67½, up ⅜, and Reading, 85¾, up 1. Mexican Petroleum recorded a gain of 1¼, 98⅜. Baldwin Locomotive opened at 86⅝, rose to 87¼, reacted to 86⅝, off ¾.

Corn Products sold at 44¾, reacted to 44, off ¾. United Cigar Stores ranged between 99 and 97, and Sumatra between 129½ and 125.

American Can, 47¾; Bethlehem B, 81¼; Republic Steel, 91½; Tobacco Products, 63, and Central Leather, 67½, were fractionally higher.

American Woolen, common, rose 1¾ to 39¾.

The local market was quiet and firm. Fairbanks rising to 39¼, up 1¾, and Booth Fisheries at 27¾, up 1¾, were leaders.

American Telephone gained ½, at 86¾; Swift & Company 1, at 106½, and Century Steel ¼, at 125¾.

Boston Elevated lost ¾, at 71¾. United Fruit 125, and United Shoe 35¾ were unchanged.

The price level was a little higher by noon, but trading was very dull, only about half as much as yesterday's list.

U. S. Steel sold up to 101½; Anaconda, 68; American Smelting, 78; American Steel Foundries, 76, and National Conduit, 188. Sumatra Tobacco fell back to 125, off 1¾.

CHARLESTOWN SOLDIER IS BURIED WITH HONORS

The funeral of Corporal Thomas F. Ryan of the National Army was held today at St. Francis de Sales Church, Charlestown. A detail of soldiers stationed in this city was present, and some of the men acted as pallbearers. Ryan was the son of Mrs. Johanna Ryan of No. 8 mill street Charlestown. He was killed July 11 by a train at Camp Dix, N. J. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, where three volleys were fired over his grave and taps were sounded.

SEEK 2 MISSING GIRLS IN RIVER TRAGEDY

State Police Take Up Investigations in Boston and New Bedford

Fall River, July 16.—Inquiry by the state police into the cases of two missing girls, one reported absent from her home in Boston and one from New Bedford, formed the chief activities today in the Taunton River murder mystery, which followed the finding of parts of a girl's body floating in the water.

State Detective Timothy Murphy left on the 11 o'clock train for Boston to investigate the disappearance of a girl concerning whom the police have received two letters which they refuse to make public. State Officer Michael Fleming left for New Bedford about the same time to see the relatives of a girl missing from that city. It is said that a sister of the New Bedford girl has been much exercised over her sister's disappearance and connects it with the Taunton River tragedy. This young woman is said to have fainted last night while discussing with friends her sister's disappearance.

Early today a burlap bag which bore stains which are thought to be blood stains was found in the Highland district of Fall River in the immediate vicinity of the place where a woman's burned dress was found recently. This find, it is hoped, will aid the police working in the Highland district on the clew offered by the dress. A further search of the shores of the river was begun today in an effort to find the other missing portion of the body of the dead girl.

New disclosures regarding the Fall River physician who is sought by the police came out today when it was learned that this doctor had been active among the mills seeking information concerning government contracts. The possibility that this doctor was a German spy and that the dead girl was killed by him because she knew too much about his activities, is also being considered by the police.

This theory developed after Medical Examiner Thomas F. Canning had announced, following an autopsy on parts of the body, that there had been no illegal surgery in connection with the girl's death.

WOMAN ACCUSED UNDER ARMY CAMP REGULATIONS

Charged with maintaining a disorderly house within five miles of a military training station, Bertha Young of Massachusetts avenue, Boston, was in the United States District Court before Commissioner Hayes. She pleaded not guilty, and was allowed to go on her own recognizance until tomorrow, when she will furnish $1,000 bail for a hearing.

CARTER, PIONEER MILL MAN, DIES IN NEEDHAM

Prominent in Country as Manufacturer and Father of Congressman

William Carter of Needham, father of Congressman William H. Carter, and long known as the "Grand Old Man of Needham," died at his home on Alfreton road today at the age of eighty-eight years. For the past month he had been confined to his room; but had previously been active as president of the William Carter Company, which he founded.

He leaves five sons and two daughters, besides his widow, who was Miss Jane Avery. His sons are Frank C., William H., Horace A., who is running for the Governor's Council for next year; John J., and Roscoe A., all of Needham; his daughters, Mrs. Charles W. Jones of Needham, and Mrs. I. Arthur Lee of Bridgeport, Ct.

Mr. Carter was born in England, coming to this country in 1857. He has been a resident of Needham since 1860. Starting in business on a small scale, he became one of the best known manufacturers of knit goods in the country, with three mills in Needham and one in Springfield. He has always been popular with his employes and never had a strike in any of his plants.

He held practically all the important town offices in Needham, and has been president of the board of trustees of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, of the Springfield Board of Trade, of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, England's Old Home Market Club and other organizations; and had represented his district in the House and in the State Legislature. He had also been a generous donor to the Needham Public Library.

WORK LAW DEFENDANT HAS CHANCE TO REGISTER

Oscar A. Swanson, who, according to the police, has been bragging that he would neither fight, work or register, was the first defendant in the Dorchester court under the anti-loafing law. He pleaded guilty to the charge, but when the court was told by his father that the young man had a job beginning tomorrow, Judge Lyons continued the case until July 22 to give him a chance to register.

PETITION TO THE SENATE FOR A SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

PETITION to the Senate to Support the President of the United States and Pass the Suffrage Amendment in Accordance with the Request of the President of the United States.

TO THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES:

The President says that the Suffrage Amendment should be passed as a just recognition of the work American women have done for the support of the war. We agree with the President.

The President says that this Suffrage Amendment is a necessary war measure; that it will help to win the war.

Senators, that alone is surely reason enough why you should vote for the amendment.

Senators, your petitioners urge you to stand by the President and to heed his advice, and to vote for the Suffrage Amendment both as a war measure that will help us to win victory sooner and as an act of high justice to the patriotic women of the United States.

STEADY STREAM OF APPEALS FLOWS IN

Brockton and Wollaston Show Tremendous Interest in Campaign for Equal Rights

America's fighters for democracy do not intend to have democracy one-sided.

That is shown clearly by the attitude of sailors and soldiers in regard to the suffrage petitions now being circulated by the Hearst papers. The men in the service have shown general sympathy with the plan to give the ballot to women and nine out of every ten who have the petition brought to their attention sign it promptly and express their best wishes for the success of the suffrage amendment.

Young men are generally more in sympathy with suffrage than the older men, apparently, but it is the men in uniform who seem to appreciate most the value of women's services in winning the war and who are most anxious that those services shall receive the recognition they deserve.

PETITIONS PILE UP.

"While her men are fighting for democracy abroad, America should not make her women fight for democracy at home," was the view of one young man. "It seems to me that it is a matter of the most elementary justice that women should have the ballot. Women do their share to win the war, and a great many women have shown conspicuous bravery on the battle front, as nurses, and in other capacities. American girls haven't yet taken the active part in the war that English women have, but they will do so. I can't think of any reasonable excuse for failure to give them the vote."

The signed petitions are coming in rapidly to the AMERICAN office. Wollaston and Brockton have shown tremendous interest in the campaign for equal rights, and the number of names that have come from those places is remarkably high. But other towns and cities are responding nobly as well. Even little places in Maine, farming communities which might be expected to remain comparatively indifferent to a question that is most actively debated in large centres of population, have shown a keen interest in the fight for action in the Senate on the Susan B. Anthony amendment.

With many of these petitions come expressions of good will for the suffrage campaigners.

DESERVE VOTE.

"I hope that by sending my name I will contribute toward winning the vote for America's women," one Maine man wrote. "They certainly deserve it."

President Wilson has exerted his influence for the Susan B. Anthony amendment, and England women will gain the status of "people" and will be entitled to some say in the affairs of government. England has already enfranchised most of her women, and suffrage sentiment is becoming so strong in Italy and France that full extension of the voting right to women in both is likely in the near future. Even in Austria, according to such news as is available from that country, a bill to enfranchise has been introduced in Parliament and is likely to pass.

Only the opposition of a small group of Senators preventing the realization of the dream for which America's women have struggled more than half a century. By signing the AMERICAN'S petition, you are showing these men that they are opposing the spirit of the nation.

Among the expressions of opinion favorable to the cause of suffrage that have been received at the AMERICAN office are the following:

MRS. CHARLES R. DAVIS, a leading banker's wife, Newton:

I cannot conceive any reason why Congress should refuse to heed the sentiment of the people of America, by declining to pass the suffrage bill. The fact that America justifies its position as the leading democracy in the world if it denies the right of suffrage to women, while Canada and Australia and England have taken the forward step that guarantees the right of women to take part in the selection of those who govern them. The Hearst newspapers are performing a public service of no small value in forwarding this cause and I, as with other Bangor women who have made a study of the matter, in Eastern Maine campaigns, hope that their efforts will meet with success. The women of Maine are, on the whole, in sympathy with the campaign.

MISS KIRTLAND PRETTA WOODMAN, 9 Hersey street, Somerville, Mass., a teacher:

I cannot see why any reason why Congress should refuse to heed the sentiment of the people of America, by declining to pass the suffrage bill. The fact that America justifies its position as the leading democracy in the world if it denies the right of suffrage to women, while Canada and Australia and England have taken the forward step that guarantees the right of women to take part in the selection of those who govern them. MISS KIRTLAND PRETTA WOODMAN, 9 Hersey street, Somerville, Mass., a teacher:

In this great crisis of the whole world the women have come forward to help and generously responded to every call, and we see them everywhere cheerfully and unselfishly performing every kind of work, even to taking the place of men in the whirlwind of life from the field to the workshop.

So I believe, that this nation, now leader of the world in liberty and justice, by the granting of equal rights to men and women, would then represent the real government "of the people, for the people and by the people."

NORWAY'S KING WILL RECEIVE VON HINTZE

Copenhagen, July 16.—Admiral Von Hintze, the newly appointed German foreign secretary, will be received in audience by King Haakon of Norway at Christiania tomorrow, said a dispatch from that city today. The object of Von Hintze's visit is to establish better relations between Germany and Norway, it is said.

TRIES TO ENLIST TO AVENGE DEATH OF FATHER

Rejected Brookline Man's Parent Executed as Spy by Germans

Burlington, Vt., July 16.—His father, Stuart de Gravelines, shot dead on July 2 in Germany as a spy and his mother dead of a shock following the execution, Kyri Leighton-Faxford de Gravelines of Brookline, Mass., and of Hereward Lodge, Long Island, the only heir to the many millions of the De Gravelines, was rejected at both the army and navy recruiting stations here when he applied for enlistment with immediate service to avenge his parent's untimely death.

Young De Gravelines is without a doubt the richest young man in New England and possibly in the United States. He is only eighteen years of age and was born in Brookline, May 1, 1900, and was educated under private tutors.

The story of his father's execution and his mother's death could only be learned through George A. Colbourne of South Burlington, who acts as private secretary to the De Gravelines. Official announcement follows:

"A cablegram from Copenhagen, signed by friends of the De Gravelines family who have just returned from Germany, states that Stuart de Gravelines, the South Burlington architect, was shot in Germany, July 2, as a spy and propagandist. His wife, who accompanied him, died the same day of acute hemorrhage."

The heir has sold his handsome home at Hereward Lodge, Long Island, and is motoring through Vermont. He stopped in Burlington and tried enlistments in the army and navy.

Young De Gravelines is to soon visit New York and offer his services to the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. for overseas work immediately.

RUSSIAN PRINCE OPENS RESTAURANT IN LONDON

London, July 16.—The Westminster Gazette learns that a well-known Russian prince, one of the exiles of the revolution, has opened a restaurant in London in order to make a living, doing the cooking himself, with former ladies of the Czar's court acting as waitresses.

Several pretty Russian countesses, also in exile, have obtained employment on the stage in third-class theatres.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO LOAFING CHARGE

Charged with violation of the anti-loafing law, Ike Reser of Hollander street, Roxbury, was before Judge Hayden in the Roxbury court, pleaded not guilty and the case was put over until July 19 for a hearing. He furnished $200 bail. He was arrested by Patrolman John R. Brett of the Back Bay station.

HULL "HELLO" GIRLS EXPERTS AT WATER SPORTS

Group of mermaids who daily revel on the sands at Kenberma, Nantasket Beach. Besides being excellent swimmers, they are also expert oarsmen, and challenge any crew of girls in Greater Boston. They are, from left to right: Claire Shannon, Estelle Dellagana, Emma Hannigan, Anna Hannigan, Louise Ford, Genevieve Driscoll and Alice Hannigan.

Mermaids have been added to our coast guard equipment.

No ordinary mermaids, either, but a group of pretty, vivacious, clever Boston telephone operators, who are experts not only at the "Hello" board, but at swimming, rowing, sewing, knitting and selling tickets for benefits for soldier boys.

The girls belong at the Main exchange in Boston, but for the Summer months have been assigned to duty at the Hull exchange.

When not on duty for the telephone company they may usually be found in the ocean, keeping a sharp lookout for U-boats. They are all excellent swimmers. They are also expert oarsmen, and are willing to row against any crew of girls in Greater Boston.

Better than this, they have even challenged the sailor boys at Bumkin Island to a rowing match.

Fishing, to aid in the conservation work of the Food Administration, is another of their activities, and from all reports they seem to have charmed the fishes around Hull, for they never go out without making a goodly catch.

They have contributed a number of specimens of their ability with the needle to the 46th Telephone Battalion, composed of young men formerly employed by the New England Telephone Company, in which they naturally take a special interest.

In addition to all these activities they find time to entertain the soldiers at Fort Warren, and just now are busy disposing of tickets for a benefit for the 1st Coast Artillery Corps at Fort Revere, to be held at the Hotel Pemberton next Saturday.

The girls in the group are Claire Shannon, Estelle Dellagana, Emma Hannigan, Anna Hannigan, Louise Ford, Genevieve Driscoll and Alice Hannigan.

THOUSANDS OF SLACKERS PUT INTO ARMY

Roundup of Men of Draft Age in Various Parts of the Country

By International News Service.

Washington, July 16.—As a result of roundups in various parts of the country, thousands of slackers and delinquents who are of draft age are being inducted into the army.

Officials in the provost marshal-general's office today expressed much satisfaction with results so far achieved by draft boards throughout the country in rounding up this class of men. What proportion of the men who have been involuntarily inducted into the army came under the "work or fight" regulation, officials in General Crowder's office are unable to state.

The lure of a reward of $50 for each wilful deserter, slacker or delinquent who is turned over to the army authorities is responsible in a measure for the large number of men who are daily being apprehended who do not possess registration and classification cards or other documentary cards showing that they had complied with the selective service law and regulations.

This reward costs the government nothing, as it is deducted from the man's pay after he gets into the army. One policeman in a large eastern city is devoting practically all his time to seeking out slackers and delinquents, and according to a report that has reached Washington, he has received in one week $1,200 in rewards for turning over men who sought to evade the draft.

Draft officials pointed out today that there will be no letup in the drive against the slackers, and the guilty ones are going to find it harder than ever to keep out of the clutches of the draft.

ROXBURY ENGINEER IS FREED OF DEATH CHARGE

The case of Phillip H. Jones of Roxbury, an engineer employed by the New Haven road, arraigned in the Dedham District Court today on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Lena G. Mahoney of Norwood, was dismissed by Judge Emery Grover for lack of prosecution. Jones was held responsible for the woman's death last March, although his train did not actually run over her.

WOMAN BLAMELESS FOR DEATH OF NORWOOD BOY

Miss Rosa Stone of No. 1802 Cranston street, Cranston, R. I., was today found blameless in the Dedham District Court for the death of Jerome Keyes, seven-year-old son of Mrs. Effie L. Keyes of No. 494 Washington street, Norwood, who was killed by her automobile on Washington street, June 8.

LONG TAKES THE STUMP IN ESSEX AGAIN TONIGHT

Richard H. Long, of Framingham, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, will resume his speaking campaign in Essex County tonight. Mr. Long will hold open-air rallies in the public squares of Gloucester, Beverly and Danvers. Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn will join the Long campaigners.

First Launching at Victory Plant on Thursday

The first of the destroyers building at Victory plant, which was built nine months ago by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Squantum, is to be launched at 7 o'clock Thursday evening.

Mrs. William S. Sims, wife of Vice-Admiral Sims, in command of the American fleet now operating in European waters, will have the honor of naming this new destroyer, for which Secretary of the Navy Daniels laid the keel on April 29.

The new destroyer will be christened Delphy. The launching will be attended by representatives of State and Nation, with army and navy officials, and special trains will be run direct into the big plant over the company's own railroad.

General Manager Wakeman, in view of the fact that the launching will mark an epoch in shipbuilding, has invited all the employes of the plant with their families to attend the launching, and they will be special guests.

7 HOTELS FACE STRIKE THREAT AND FAMINE

Cooks' Demand for $2 Increase Said to Be Approved by Other Unions

Patrons of seven leading Boston hotels are threatened with a food famine if the threatened strike of the cooks and waiters is carried out. The management of the Lenox, Somerset, Brunswick, Essex, United States, Crawford and Lucerne have been given until 5 p. m. to meet the demands of the cooks for a $2 increase and a sixty-hour week of six days.

Should the strike be carried out, the guests of these houses, who have been accustomed to the best the market affords and served in palatial dining rooms or their private suites, will not only be forced to patronize one-arm lunch rooms and second-class restaurants, but they may be forced to do without fancy cocktails and even walk or ride on the elevated, as the waitresses', bartenders', engineers', firemen's and chauffeurs' unions are said to be ready to support the strike.

SAMMY'S MARATHON RECORD WAR LETTER

Worcester, July 16.—"Sammy's Marathon," is the title of what is perhaps the longest letter ever sent to an American soldier at the front. This letter is six feet long, and has just been mailed to Corporal Samuel Shaw, by his former associates at the Royal Worcester Corset Company plant. It took ten days to prepare the missive, which has a number of original drawings and snapshots.

LAWYER GIVEN SIX MONTHS FOR LARCENY

New York, July 16.—Harry Cook a Brooklyn lawyer, was sentenced to six months imprisonment after pleading guilty to grand larceny in the second degree. Cook had been indicted in August, 1918, on the charge of obtaining $1,500 from Mrs. Mollie Rosen through a fraudulent mortgage, and at the time he left the city. He recently returned to Brooklyn from the Middle West.

N. Y. GERMAN IN COURT ON ESPIONAGE CHARGE

Hans Heydemann, a New York salesman, who was indicted here a month ago for violation of the espionage act, pleaded not guilty in the United States court and furnished $500 bail for his appearance for trial in September. The government alleges that in North Adams last April Heydemann said he would not have to fight against the Germans, because he was a native of Germany who had taken out his first naturalization papers.

AUTO TRUCK KILLS SOUTH BOSTON CHILD

Rosa Perlone, five years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Perlone of No. 25 Second street, South Boston, was killed instantly when she was run over by an auto truck while trying to steal a ride with her girl chum.

The truck was owned by Thomas J. Thoma of No. 8 Reade street, Assument, and driven by his brother, Percival J. Thoma of No. 10 Leeds street, South Boston. The latter was arrested charged with manslaughter.

Scouts Here on Motor Trucks in Record Run from Ohio

Making the record non-stop run of 785 miles from Akron, Ohio, in sixty-one and one-half hours, and beating their schedule by eight hours, five motor trucks, carrying seventy-two Boy Scouts from the rubber city, arrived in Boston today. The trip has demonstrated the value of motor trucks for army transportation, and a full report will be made to President Wilson and Secretary Baker when the party visits Washington on the return trip.

The party, consisting of three passenger trucks, which at night are converted into sleepers, one commissary and one supply truck, left Akron Saturday afternoon.

The boys sold thrift stamps and distributed food conservation literature on the way.

A demonstration of cooking and serving a hot meal in twenty minutes will be given on Boston Common tomorrow.

KISSED MAID AS "LARK," SAYS ACCUSED HUSBAND

New York, July 16.—Although Henry H. McClure, general manager of the Associated Newspapers, admits that he kissed a pretty maid servant in his apartment, he claims he did it only as a "lark," that there was nothing in his relations with the young woman to cause Mrs. Frances C. McClure, his wife, to become jealous.

Counter suits for divorce are pending in the Supreme Court.

$10,000 JEWEL ROBBERY AT FAIRFIELD, CONN.

Greenwich, Conn., July 16.—It became known today that the Summer residence of D. H. Warner, at Greenville, Mills, Fairfield, Conn., was burglarized on Friday, July 5, and jewels valued at $10,000 were stolen. A reward of $5,000 has been offered by Mr. Warner for any information which may lead to their recovery.

OFFICE SEEKERS MUST QUIT RED CROSS

Men Out for Political Jobs to Abandon Candidacies or Resign From Society

The American Red Cross is no political ladder.

Stern and early warning of that was issued today.

Red Cross officials who intended to run for public office this Fall were notified to resign from the Red Cross or abandon their political candidacies.

The notice to local branches, signed by G. E. Scott, acting general manager, of the Red Cross War Council, read in part:

"The first general election since the entrance of the United States in the war, is to take place before long. The Red Cross is and must be maintained a strictly non-partisan, non-political organization. The reasons for this are so obvious to everyone that they need no elaboration.

"Membership in the Red Cross includes so many people and there are so many men of prominence engaged in its work, either at home or abroad, that it is not at all unlikely that many of them will be candidates for office. No matter how sincerely any Red Cross official or worker may strive to keep separate his Red Cross work from any possible political ambitions which he may entertain, he may and probably will be quite unable to prevent his friends from using his connection with the Red Cross in order to gain favor with the voters.

"The Red Cross War Council instructs me to direct that you request all officials of the Red Cross, either in chapters or division headquarters who are in any position of executive authority and who at the same time contemplate candidacy for public office, either to resign in their official capacity from the Red Cross or to refrain from such candidacy.

"At the same time, we ask that you give this statement the broadest publicity and that you use every influence of your office to prevent, in so far as is possible, the use of the Red Cross or of any of its services either directly or indirectly in the advancement, or in connection with the political campaign of any person."

HUDSON MAN ASKS $3,000 FOR DAMAGES TO AUTO

Thure Johnstone of Maynard has been sued for $3,000 by George V. Fuller of Hudson. He alleges that on June 2, 1918, while driving his automobile in the town of Stow his car was damaged when the defendant's machine collided with it.

BAD BILL BISON KILLS ROCKY MOUNTAIN JACK

Worcester, July 16.—In a duel to the death at the Lake Park zoo, Bed Hill, a 1,500-pound American bison, gored to death Rocky Mountain Jack, a prize 400-pound bull elk, worth $1,000. The superintendent of the zoo tried for several hours to separate the combatants with a pitchfork, but they paid no heed to him. The bison had just been placed in the pen with the elk. The latter did not relish the intrusion and charged.

WATSON AT ODDS WITH STORROW OVER COAL

Accuses Fuel Administrator of Evading Question as to Municipal Pile for Poor

Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow threw a "surprise bomb" into a special committee hearing during the City Council session when he offered to sell to Chairman "Jerry" Watson of the Necessities of Life Committee 5,000 cords of wood "right across the table," at somewhere around $8 or $9 a cord, alongside rack."

"There isn't any question about it. The city can buy all the wood it needs and at the right price. My office is besieged nearly every day by men who want to sell wood, and my suggestion is that now is the time to buy," said Mr. Storrow.

TAPPING BIG DEALERS.

During the session a statement was made by one of the members that dealers in wood were boosting the price since the order that no coal be burned before December 1 was issued.

"Don't deal with generalities," snapped Storrow. "Give me a specific case and I'll put a stop to it."

"All right," said Councilman Watson. "I'll give you three jobs within twenty-four hours, Mr. Storrow."

Councillor Ford was questioned by Mr. Storrow in connection with the city taking a hand in the allotment of coal, explaining that by tapping the big local dealer a municipal emergency pile could be secured, this to be sold in 100-pound lots to the poorer classes.

Mr. Storrow said he did not wish to be understood as opposing any of the plans offered by the committee, but added: "If you started to take coal away from the dealers I don't know just what machinery you would use."

Again Mr. Storrow said, "If you want to put the city into the business of delivering coal, I'll do all I can to help you. I have no doubt the local fuel committee would be glad to be rid of the responsibility."

STORROW AND WATSON CLASH.

Chairman Watson apparently took exception to the Fuel Administrator's answer and accused him of "evading." Whereupon Mr. Storrow shot back, "I don't know why I should sit here and have you insult me by these questions—whether or not I am willing to do all I can to relieve the conditions of the poor people when last winter I worked absolutely to the limit of my physical strength."

Whereupon Mr. Watson disclaimed any intended insult.

Councilman Watson's idea is to establish a municipal coal pocket on the old baseball grounds on Huntington avenue. His plans call for the distribution of the coal after it once reached Boston on flat cars over the Elevated, to municipal coal stations in various sections of the city.

When Mr. Watson read a letter from former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, asking permission to be heard before the committee, Mr. Storrow said:

"Gentlemen, do you think that any man who is a candidate for office can give us his unbiased opinion on these matters?"

HELD FOR ONE DEATH, ADMITS ANOTHER?

Paolo Cadisputi, captured by the police Sunday night in a running fight across the Revere marshes after the killing of John Carriote, today confessed, according to the police, the murder of Rocco Marciano, at No. 6 Revere place, North End, December 12, 1915. Cadisputi is at the Massachusetts General Hospital with a bullet in his shoulder as a result of the Sunday night affray. Cadisputi was recognized by the police as the man wanted for the Marciano shooting, and today gave details of the tragedy. The quarrel rose over a card game, when Cadisputi, after killing Marciano, twice shot Mrs. Marciano, who recovered. Inspector Dennessey says Cadisputi went to Beverly, then to New York, and later to Pennsylvania, where he served two years for shooting a man.

RHODE ISLAND COMPANY ASKS RELIEF ON TAXES

Providence, R. I., July 16.—The Rhode Island Company is not only facing a strike of the Street Carmen's Union in Providence, but the special city committee has reported that delay is advisable in the plan to relieve the company of the payment of $11,000 in taxes, as a minor trouble, one of the company's cars has just been held up and an attempt made to rob the conductor and motorman. The company has offered $250 reward for the culprit. While most of the employes favor going out they have agreed to await action by the War Labor Board until Thursday night. As for the tax matter, the committee has adjourned for two weeks and nothing more will be done until it meets again.

63-YEAR-OLD MAN IS ARRESTED AS VAGRANT

New York, July 16.—Gone a month from his home in Corning, N. Y., William Brown, sixty-three years old, was found in a vacant lot in Brooklyn, and arraigned on a vagrancy charge. The charge was dismissed by Magistrate Esterbrook.

Brown was given into the custody of his nieces, Mrs. Margaret Brui of Brooklyn and Mrs. Martha Dotter of Altoona, Pa. It was believed Brown may be suffering from aphasia, as he did not recognize the women.

APPEAL FROM QUINCY FOR PLENTY OF COAL

Mayor Joseph L. Whiton of Quincy has written a letter to James J. Storrow, fuel administrator for New England, asking that some measures be taken to expedite shipments of coal to Quincy. Most of Quincy's coal comes by barge, and as the harbor was frozen last Winter deliveries by water were greatly delayed and irregular, and residents suffered severely.

EVERY ENGINE CAREFULLY TESTED

Velie Agent Describes Painstaking Supervision Exercised at Factory

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

Many interesting machines are used in a motor car factory and incidentally those testing the "balance" of a car are remarkably ingenious. The power of many engines has been greatly increased by tests and this has played an important part in the Briscoe factory, according to A. J. Shorey, manager of the New England Velie Company, local distributor for the Briscoe for New England. In speaking of the engine of the Briscoe car, he says:

"The hero of the $1,800-million dollar motor has been increased considerably and that every Briscoe crank shaft now undergoes a rotary counter balance test, which, while there are other points that contribute to the increased power, are the principal factors in the increased horsepower.

"An ingenious machine is used in the Briscoe factories testing the balance of the shafts. This machine is so constructed that the shafts may be tested at various engine speeds, for you know that while a shaft may balance at one speed it may not at another, and vibration is usually the result.

"This rotary test discloses the different periods of vibration and is of untold help in its elimination. This balancing of the crank shafts, the weighing of pistons and connecting rods make a perfectly balanced motor.

"There are innumerable points to this power proposition—the lift of valves, the timing of valves, the cooling, the position of spark plugs—all of which have been most carefully worked on in the development of this more powerful engine."

Sixty Boy Scouts, selected for the trip by competitive examination, together with executives of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, are on their way from Akron, Ohio, to Boston in five auto trucks owned by the tire company and part of the company's Akron to Boston Motor Truck Express line. The total distance which they will travel is about 2,500 miles.

Upon their arrival here they will go to Duxbury, Mass., and camp for several days near the Summer home of F. W. Litchfield, vice-president of the company. On their return they will visit New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Gettysburg and Pittsburgh. The entire trip will occupy two weeks. The cars are equipped with berths and are accompanied by a field kitchen. All meals are taken on auto routs and stops are made only for gasoline and oil.

Give England's Queen $3,000 on Silver Anniversary

London, July 16.—In commemoration of the silver wedding of King George and Queen Mary, the Needlework Guild has raised £600 as a present to the Queen, in addition to thousands of gifts for wounded soldiers of the Allies. Among these are 30,000 pairs of sox. The gifts have overflowed the Queen Anne drawing room in St. James Palace.

The aged aunt of the Mayor of Toronto, now over ninety, has sent a patchwork quilt in which there are more than a million stitches. Gifts have come from all quarters of the earth. Australia, Central America, the Malay Peninsula, Peru and other faraway lands are represented by a wide variety of gifts.

FOOD PRICES UP 3 PER CENT. IN MONTH

Seven of 25 Articles Investigated Show a Decline During the Past Year.

By International News Service.

Washington, July 16.—Retail prices for food in this country increased 3 per cent. between April 15 and May 15, Department of Labor statistics, made public today, showed. A comparison for a 3-year period—May, 1913, to May, 1918—shows that food costs were 62 per cent. higher in 1918. Every article of food in this period increased at least 18 per cent. in price, and in some instances 106 per cent. or more.

For the one-year period between May, 1917, and May, 1918, seven of twenty-five articles investigated declined in price as follows:

Potatoes, 64 per cent.; onions, 35 per cent.; flour, 26 per cent.; sugar, 9 per cent.; beans, 7 per cent.; cheese, 1 per cent.; and coffee less than 1 per cent. Five showed the following increases:

Beef, 32 per cent.; corn meal, 30 per cent.; hens, 29 per cent.; milk, 26 per cent., and pork chops 29 per cent. For this period food as a whole increased 5 per cent. in price, the Department of Labor report shows.

"WILL I BE SHOT?" ASKS ALLEGED DRAFT DODGER

Providence, R. I., July 16.—When Walter Goyette, of Harmony, was found hiding in a haymow and charged with attempting draft evasion, his first question of his captors was, "Will I be shot in the morning?" Three other men were arrested on the same charge.

MAJOR BRIGGS WINS PRAISE OF BAKER

Devens Public Utilities Commission, of Which He Is Head, Called Best in Country

Camp Devens, Ayer, July 16.—The public utilities department, as administered by Major Edward M. Briggs, has been accorded the recognition due as being the best in any of the camps in this country.

The War Department promoted Major Briggs upon consideration of his record of successfully maintaining the camp during the most severe Winter in recent years. It brought him to Washington to explain how he secured results, and applied the information he gave them to other camps in the country. Following this a conference of the commanding officers of public utility departments of all of the camps was held last week, and upon its conclusion the officers were ordered to come to Camp Devens for a tour of duty and investigate the wonderful organization here.

The secret of Major Briggs' success has been known in camp for a long time. There isn't an officer or enlisted man in the command who is not acquainted with his administration who won't work his fingers off for the "boss." It was nothing at all for the several emergency crews to tumble out of bed during the middle of the night and labor without sleep, food or warm, dry clothing for hours at a time, in order to save the camp from one disaster or another.

ALL OBSTACLES OVERCOME.

Fire in a barracks, water pipes frozen or broken, electric wires down, heating plants threatened with explosion, roads locked in ice and snow, distribution of supplies cut off and many other circumstances including forest fires, which threatened to sweep the camp, were met and overcome by the smooth working machine administered by the major. He worked all the time, remaining on duty all night and all day so many times the count became lost.

Captain George A. Christensen, commanding the public utilities department at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla., heads the delegation now visiting here. Captain H. F. Porter, commanding the "P. U." at Camp Zachary Taylor, and Captain Charles Bird, "P. U." commander at Chillicothe, O., are in the delegation. Others will visit during the week.

Provost guards arrested nine soldiers for being in Lawrence contrary to Major General Hodges' order. Four of the men knew nothing of the order, but may be disciplined for questioning the authority of the military police.

A local restaurant proprietor is struggling with the problem of how to meet the requirements of the public health agent and install proper appliances for sanitation. For the first time, a provost guard turns soldier patrons away from the door.

JAP MAY BE DISCHARGED.

Department of Justice agents and state police brought five railroad employes to the intelligence office for examination. Three claimed to be registered and their claims are being investigated. Two others proved to be enemy aliens, and they were warned to keep away from the camp in the future, it being a barred zone.

Several Boston business men formed the John F. Fitzgerald Club to boost the candidacy of the former Mayor for the U. S. Senate, taking a party of soldiers to Lake Boone for an outing as the opening of their campaign.

Taro Shinada, No. 143 Worcester street, Boston, 18th Company, Depot Brigade, is the only Japanese in camp. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and will probably be discharged as ineligible for service on account of the interest of his own country. He is a marine engineer. In the Tokio High School he had his left arm broken in Jiu Jitsu practice. "Yokoto" is the name for the military adaptation of Jiu Jitsu.

Theron Bishop of Benson, Vt., 204th Infantry, and Joseph E. Mason of Princeton, 4th Company, died of pneumonia. Private Walter B. Wallace of North Chesterfield, Me., had his left hand amputated after it was crushed underneath a railroad train. He slipped on a wet spot, walking along the tracks.

Ex - Dartmouth Star Anxious to Avenge Death of Pal

Worcester, July 16. — One of Dartmouth's foremost athletes of other days, Jack McAuliffe of Worcester, a few years since leader of one of the best eleven that ever represented the Green, has volunteered his services as an overseas secretary for the Knights of Columbus.

He has tried almost every branch of service, but failed to connect in his attempts to volunteer because of ear trouble. He wants overseas duty and will do anything for Uncle Sam with the end in view.

"Mac," close friend of McAuliffe, has been killed in action and the Green 1915 leader is out to square accounts with the Boches for taking off his star tackle on that eleven.

RECEIVING SHIP CREW GENUINE AMERICANS

Very Few of Sailors on Board Speak Other Tongue Than English

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, July 16—It is an interesting fact that not only are all the sailors on board the Receiving Ship Americans, but they are nearly all the kind of Americans that are commonly called Yankees.

One may walk about the deck of the ship for hours and not hear the men and not hear a word spoken in a foreign language or in a tongue that betokens foreign descent.

A large part of the boys are country-bred and come from the farms of New England, the Middle West and the South. The order of Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood that Pats shall be prepared of men of foreign birth who are entitled to be inducted into the full rights of citizenship because of their presence in Uncle Sam's fighting forces will not occasion much cry of woe on the shin. The names of the few men affected by the order will be promptly forwarded to headquarters, and they will later be taken before a United States court to swear allegiance to the nation that they have enlisted to defend.

That sailors can write forcefully as well as fight is shown by the following interesting editorial on "Profiteering" in the ship's paper, the Pier-E-Scope:

"It would be a pleasure for a firing squad to face some of the profiteers at ten paces. The soldiers' and sailors' families have a hard enough time to make both ends meet, and their men in the service will not stand for these rotten unpatriotic 'German-American' people living in a free country getting protection from the boys in the service, and while they are away fighting on land and sea to have to pay prices that these guns put over on them.

"Dig them out, boys, every time you find one report him or her to the State Administrator with proof. At the same time, if it happens to be a 'he bum,' take a shot at his jaw for luck before you report him and he gets interned or put in jail."

Marine, on Two-Hour Furlough, Takes Nurse as Bride

New York, July 16.—A fine appearing man in the uniform of a marine appeared at the hospital where his fiance, Miss Marie Elizabeth Dougherty of Philadelphia, is taking the nurse's course, and inquired for her. When she appeared he said:

"I have received a two-hour notice to leave for Paris, N. C. Can you marry me at once?"

She could and would and did.

Together they visited the hall of records, where beneath an American flag, she became Mrs. John W. Murray.

Then she hurried back to the hospital and he made a train to hear him South.

542 STARS ON EAST BOSTON PARISH FLAG

A Service Flag bearing 542 stars will be raised this evening at the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel on Grove street in East Boston. The stars represent Italian youths of Mt. Carmel Parish, who are now in war service. The programs will begin at 7.30, under direction of Rev. Charles Mazzaro, O. F. M., pastor of the church. It is announced that Speaker Channing Cox of the House, Representatives Garcelon and Scigliano and Joseph Di Marco will speak.

BULL RUN SURVIVORS GO ON OUTING SATURDAY

Ten survivors of the first Battle of Bull Run will celebrate at the 57th annual reunion of the Charlestown Artillery Veterans' Association Saturday with an outing at Nantasket Beach. The expedition will be in charge of the president, Captain J. W. Rose of No. 34 Rose Hill avenue, Roxbury, a member of Post 2. The company originally numbered 35 men.

35 per cent of the output of the seven big Maxwell plants is war work.

Every one of those plants is doing its patriotic duty—100 per cent.

We are frank to say we believe that is equally true of our competitors—we have yet to learn of a single shirker in this industry.

If there is anything more Uncle Sam desires done, we will tackle that too.

Meantime, and for the very reasons set forth above, we deplore the loose statements of panic-preaching publicists throughout the country.

These would close down the third largest industry in America on the grounds that it is a "non essential" industry.

No other industry is doing so much outside its regular sphere—doing it so willingly, doing it so rapidly and doing it so honestly as is this very motor car industry.

For a ship builder to make a few more ships, or for an ordnance plant to make more guns is only to develop their normal business.

But for a motor car factory to make ships entire, and in part—and guns—and shells—and fuses—and caterpillar tractors—and mine anchors—and airplane motors, wings and other parts—that is doing things.

This industry is doing all that and more.

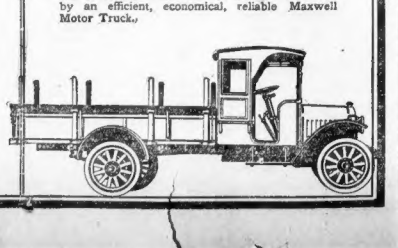
Detroit, the very center of the motor car industry—an inland city and one where, in normal times, we had no war industry—now is doing more war work than any other city in America.

And in our regular line we are also helping more than any other class of business men to solve the transportation problems at home and abroad—for we not only transport a very large percentage of our own raw material and finished product on its own wheels, but every truck—yes, and every passenger car too—helps by thousands of tons per year in carrying, formerly done by the railroads.

Loose talk is harmful at any time—it is particularly serious just now.

Let other industries do their part—do a tithe of what the motor car industry is doing—and they will be going some.

Meantime your own transportation problem, accentuated as it is by the war activities and the war prosperity of the country, can best be solved by efficient, economical, reliable Maxwell Motor Truck.



$2,000 PRIZE FOR WRITERS OF SONGS

Song-writers, attention!

Here is the latest information on the great contest for writers of patriotic songs, now being conducted by the Hearst publications, in which the first prize is $2,000 and the total of prizes offered is $5,000.

These are the rewards for the successful song-writers:

First prize	$2,000
Second prize	1,000
Third prize	500
Fourth prize	300
Fifth prize	200

and ten other prizes of $100 each, making a total of $5,000.

The aim of this contest is to stimulate writers to contribute songs suitable for a national song that will express the wave of patriotism now sweeping over the country. The songs submitted must be new, and complete both in words and music. Songs already published will not be considered.

CLOSES JANUARY 1.

The contest is open now and will close January 1, 1919. Anyone may enter the contest, whether an amateur or professional song writer, and each contestant may submit as many songs as he or she desires. However, it is advisable not to send in corrections after songs have been submitted. It will be better to send in a new manuscript.

It is not necessary that the same person shall compose both words and music. Persons submitting songs may have some one else write either words or music as they desire. The Hearst publications, however, cannot refer writers of verse to composers of music, or vice versa.

The contest will be decided by a committee which will be appointed this Fall. All songs will be turned in to this committee, the members of which will be made known through the AMERICAN as soon as they are appointed.

RETAIN RIGHTS.

Holders of copyrights retain all their rights except that of publication in the Hearst newspapers. The Hearst organization cannot undertake to secure copyrights, however. Songs in manuscript will be considered, but must be plainly written, preferably in ink. The music should consist of air and piano accompaniment, but orchestra and band scores may be submitted. Each contestant must decide for himself in what form he wants to make his composition—whether a hymn, anthem, march, or other form.

Contestants should be sure to retain a copy of their manuscripts. Songs should be sent to the Boston AMERICAN, and further details regarding the contest will appear in this paper.

PLAN TO RETURN BASTILLE KEY APPLAUDED

Prominent Citizens Indorse Giving Back Historic Relic to French Republic

Happy thought!

This was the general opinion expressed by prominent Bostonians upon the suggestion of Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity Church of Newton Centre, that America return to France the historic key to the Bastille.

Dean Rousmaniere of St. Paul's Cathedral, where Rector Sullivan made the suggestion in a Bastille Day address, summed up the idea as "very good and appropriate."

Judge Michael J. Murray of the City Court esteems is a "graceful and gracious act," providing that it is agreeable to the French government.

Rector Sullivan's address, in which he made the "key" suggestion, was on the subject: "France, the Joan of Arc of the Nations." He said in part:

MARKS AN ERA.

"The fall of the Bastille marked the end of an era, an ancient regime, and destroyed absolutism. For 400 years it stood as the symbol of a corrupt, iniquitous system, and when the old order fell the key of the Bastille was given by Lafayette to Washington as a token of the victory of liberty over despotism. The key is now at Mt. Vernon, Washington.

"On this great day for France I suggest that we return to France the key of the Bastille as a symbol of the victory for world liberty she has won; as a gracious symbol of the freedom made secure for mankind forevermore."

The clergyman also offered the suggestion that, as a material token, the United States cancel all its loans to France.

Among the statements today by leading Bostonians were the following:

VERY REV. E. S. ROUSMANIERE, Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral—A very good and a very appropriate suggestion. As I understand Mr. Sullivan, his suggestion is meant to point a way where the American people can express their co-operation with France's struggle for liberty.

JUDGE MICHAEL J. MURRAY, Boston Municipal Court—I think it would be a very graceful and gracious act on the part of the United States to return to France the key of the Bastille, provided the French Government wanted it. As the key was given to George Washington by Marquis de Lafayette, it is possible that the French Government of today would prefer to abide by the decision of the government of the time of Lafayette and insist that the gift remain at Mount Vernon.

EDWARD F. McGRADY, president Boston Central Labor Union—I believe that this would be but a slight expression of our debt to France. By returning the key we would simply be extending the good hand of fellowship to our French brothren and it would bind the ties which are already strong. I claim that we, nor the whole world, can ever repay the debt we owe to France. France has already paid more than any other nation in this war for the freedom of the peoples of the world. She has been the entering key which paved the way for the victory which is coming and which means the overthrow of despotism. We can't do too much to show these brave people how much we appreciate what they have done.

WALTER H. CREAMER, of Lynn—I think that the suggestion of Rev. Mr. Sullivan to return the key of the Bastille to France and which has been taken up by the Boston AMERICAN, is worthy of the endorsement of every good citizen. I think that it would be a very grateful thing to do and hope that the suggestion will be carried through.

RICHARD H. LONG, Framingham manufacturer—It seems to me the idea is a very good one, provided certain conditions are satisfactory. For instance, the French are a proud people and they might resent having turned back to them a gift which they made to us. On the other hand the key to the Bastille is the very essence of the symbolism of French independence and it ought by rights to be in the possession of the French people. It is as much to the French as the Liberty Bell is to the United States. I should say, yes, let them have it.

W. RANDOLPH ANGELL, Marine Corps Lieutenant—This key, given by Lafayette to Washington, has been hanging for years in Mt. Vernon. We have cherished the memories which it has inspired through the changing years.

This war has drawn France and America closer and closer together. To give this key back to France seems to me a gracious act at this particular time.

When the key was first given to this country, the times were revolutionary. That is to say, republics were hanging in the balance. America could be trusted more than any other nation to safeguard that key. It has done so. The occasion for the protection of that key has passed.

In giving back the key to France, we are giving back a gift, but we are emphasizing the fact that the union of these republics makes us one.

CALVIN COOLIDGE, Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts—The celebration of Bastille Day has brought out the very interesting suggestion made by Reverend Edward T. Sullivan that the key of the Bastille, which is now at Mount Vernon, be returned to the French people.

We are sending them as fast as we can an army which it is hoped they may use to unlock and destroy the Bastille of the present day which is represented by the Prussian military despotism. When this great task shall have been completed, it seems to me that it would be especially fitting and appropriate that we should leave with the French people as a symbol of the united efforts of France and America to destroy the last vestige of despotism—the key of the old Bastille.

It has been in the possession of America for generations and ought to take on a new and added interest for the modern inhabitants of France and for the American people. It would be very gratifying to think that this symbol of French liberty has been preserved here as an inspiration to America to fulfil the duties of the present hour, and having accomplished that great task, it could fittingly be returned to the people over whom it once exercised a terrifying influence, but whom it will terrify no more.

Key to Bastille in Washington's Home at Mount Vernon

The key to the Bastille is now at Mount Vernon, the home of Washington, where it is preserved in a glass case. It is near Washington's spy-glass. In the great passage of the old colonial mansion and both the key and the glass are in the same relative positions as when Washington placed them there.

The key came into Washington's possession through Lafayette, who, after the fall of the great prison, was chosen commander-in-chief of the National Guard of France. He sent it to Thomas Paine, in London, to be forwarded to Washington.

"It is a tribute which I owe as a son to my adopted father—as an aide-de-camp to my general—as a missionary of liberty to its patriarch," Lafayette wrote of the key.

"That the principles of America opened the Bastille is not to be doubted," was Paine's comment, in forwarding it.

FAVOR BLOCK ISLAND AS AMERICAN HELIGOLAND

Providence, July 16.—Block Island as an American Heligoland is the aim of Secretary Daniels of the Navy, according to word received here from Washington. It is said that the Secretary puts so high a value on the defensive importance of the island that he wants the government to take it over and fortify it. According to communications from the Secretary to Congressman O'Shaunessey of this State, Admiral Knight last year pointed out the resemblance of Block Island to Heligoland.

PAWTUCKET STRIKERS TO APPEAL TO WAR BOARD

Pawtucket, July 16.—An ultimatum by John Golden, head of the Textile Workers' Union, declares that if the mill owners refuse to ignore attempts at arbitration proposed by the strikers he will demand a Federal inquiry into the strike situation here by the War Labor Board or other authorities. The workers have agreed to accept arbitration and to accept the decision of H. J. Skeffington, Henry B. Endicott or the War Labor Board, but the mill owners, it is said, refuse to make any concessions.

PLAN PROBE OF GERMAN CHEMICAL CONCERNS

New York, July 16.—A nation-wide inquiry into the ownership of all chemical concerns having German affiliations was suggested by Joseph S. Cheate, attorney for the Custodian of Alien Enemy Property, as probable in the course of a continued hearing into the ownership of three chemical companies operating in and near New York. The companies concerned are the Roessler Hasslacher Company of New York, the Perth Amboy Chemical Company of Perth Amboy, N. J., and the Niagara Electro Chemical Company of Niagara Falls.

TRIES TO KILL SELF ON WAY TO DEVENS

Worcester, July 16. — Frank H. Tibbles of Waterbury, Conn., attempted to kill himself, it is alleged, while being transported from that place to Camp Devens for induction into the service following his alleged attempt to evade the draft. He used some drugs and a revolver in the attempt. A brakeman frustrated the alleged attempt. He was removed to City Hospital, where his name is on the danger list. It is said the man was formerly an inmate of an insane hospital in Ohio.

ALLEGED LOAFER TOLD TO SEEK EMPLOYMENT

Judge Connelly in the Brighton court found Peter Barnard of Brighton avenue, Allston, guilty of violation of the anti-loafing law and continued his case until Monday. Judge Connelly told Barnard that he must establish himself in a useful occupation before that time and ordered him to bring affidavits from persons showing that he was employed. He was also charged with larceny. That case was filed, upon making restitution and paying the costs of court.

MEANS TELLS ABOUT "SECOND" KING WILL

Chicago, July 16.—Gaston B. Means, recently acquitted of the charge of killing Mrs. Maud C. King, along a lonely North Carolina road, in Probate Court here told how he found the so-called "second" King will in a bundle of legal papers sent him for examination by Mrs. King. Mrs. Mary Melvin, sister of Mrs. King, seeks to establish validity of the second will, which makes her the beneficiary of practically the whole, $2,000,000 estate.

The first King will left the estate largely in trust and to charities, while the second made Mrs. Melvin sole legatee.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

GIRL IN $100,000 LOVE SUIT NOW IN U. S. NAVY

Miss Elizabeth L. Baxter, now in service of Uncle Sam at Newport navy yard. She came into prominence three years ago in $100,000 breach of promise suit.

Newport, R. I., July 16.—Former plaintiff in a $100,000 breach of promise suit, and one time star witness in a trial of auto bandits whom she helped to convict, Miss Elizabeth L. Baxter, pretty Providence girl, has now gone into the service of Uncle Sam. Having come to Newport for a few weeks to visit friends, Miss Baxter enlisted as a yeowoman at the Navy Yard, and has been assigned to duty in the office of Lieutenant-Commander Orson D. Munn of the Naval Reserve Force at the Naval Training Station.

Miss Baxter came into prominence three years ago, when she sued Thomas F. Burke, wealthy young liquor dealer, for $100,000 for failure to keep his engagement to marry her. Testimony showed that Burke objected to strong language which his fiances used.

On the stand she admitted using the word "hell" in a fit of temper. The marriage was called off, testimony showed, because Burke was unwilling that Miss Baxter's mother should live with them, after they were married, in a $15,000 house he was building. Miss Baxter told how he christened an iawn of their home grassing with champagne.

The case was settled out of court. Miss Baxter was at that time a cashier in a shoe store. A year previously, she had been the State's star witness in the prosecution of a group of auto bandits who had robbed the store, and it was her testimony that convicted them and resulted in sentences of six to eight years each. Bills marked by her led to their arrest and identification.

PROMINENT SOUTH BOSTON WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Catherine J. Walsh, age sixty-seven, of No. 922 East Broadway, South Boston, is dead at her home after a long illness. Mrs. Walsh was a resident of South Boston for fifty years and was active in church and charitable work. She was the widow of John F. Walsh, a patrolman, for twenty-five years, connected with Lagrange street station, and a familiar, grassing officer at the South Station for many years.

Mrs. Walsh is survived by Rev. Edward A. Walsh, dean of Georgstown University; Fred V., organist at St. Eulalia's Church; Lillian and George H. Walsh. She was also the mother of the late Rev. John F. Walsh, professor of science at Brighton Seminary, who died five years ago. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning with services at St. Eulalia's Church at 10 a. m.

SECRETARY LANE IS FIFTY-FOUR YEARS YOUNG

Washington, July 16.—Secretary Lane had to be told that it was his birthday, the fifty-fourth. Mrs. Lane and the family, who usually remind him of such things, are out of the city. But for the circumstances of his birth, Secretary Lane might be regarded as a possibility for the presidency one of these days. It happens, however, that he was born near Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Canada, and hence is the constitution of the United States says none but the native-born may aspire to the presidency.

HOOVER IN LONDON FOOD CONFERENCE

London, July 16.—An important conference to devise means of suppressing profiteering in food is to be made here as soon as United States Food Administrator Hoover arrives. England hopes to profit by the adoption of Mr. Hoover's methods in this direction as well as by his advice regarding the proper distribution of food supplies.

ALL LEPERS OF U.S. MAY COME TO PENIKESE

Government Considering Making Island Headquarters for Treatment of Disease

That the Federal government is considering Penikese Island, the leper colony of this State, as the place for confining all the lepers in the United States, became known today.

Dr. George W. McCoy, director of the hygienic laboratory, and Dr. William C. Woodward of the United States Public Health Service, have just completed an investigation authorized by Congress.

There are 1,000 lepers in the United States, according to estimate. Massachusetts is now caring for twelve at the island. Not all suffering from the disease are confined. Secretary Robert W. Kelso of the State Board of Health believes that were the State to be combed at least fifty cases would be uncovered.

Leper colonies also exist off the coast of Louisiana and in the Honolulu Islands. The Federal officers will also inspect them as possible sites for the national leprosorium. Dr. Kelso is of the opinion that unsuitable climatic conditions of New England may cause the selection of a more southern site. This action would cause the abandonment of Penikese as a leper colony, it is said.

Famous Baseball Slangster Scores Sox Management for Advancing Detroit Games

By NICK FLATLEY.

Hank Gowdy, Somewhere in France,

Not in no shipyard;

Friend Hank.—Say, listen, Hank, you should ought to be over hear now. This baseball is the funniest thing you ever heard of, and you know, Hank, you've herd of lots of funny things like Pat ragun pitchin' a fast wun, or dick Rudolf gettin' up a sweat. But it's all better then that now.

If you was hear, Hank, youde prolerly be givin' 2 cheers because the way their goin' now them ball players don't haveter play only a couple of days into each week. Playin' that way hurts the game, but then you no Hank, they don't care.

Rite hear in Boston, they have it all fixed up like this. Them Detroyts com hear friday. Their goin to play them one gaim friday, an then 2 on saterday. That meens that mundays gaim will be played hear saterday. Then toosdays gaim will be played in detroyt on sundey.

Wich is a pretty good sistem, Hank, but it aint givin them fants no brake wich is prety tuff, seein as how their comin out to them gaims in bunches every day now. Us guys like that baseball every day, hank, you no, but wear goin to get sear when they giv us mondey and 2dey off, like they want to now.

It makes things tuff for them Braves, who come back afterward, an' it makes it look like that war is started allredy.

Them Red Sox won yesterday, hank, and look like champeens as the braves dident play, so they dident lose, but of course that must worry you guys a hole lot, jest lik not havin no curve worride Bill James, hey hank.

Them shipyard guys proberly wish now they never had started nothin. Noin them gerrmuns are the same, Inu, A. BOSTON PHAN.

TWO MORE KIDS ROUNDED UP BY ED BARROW

Two new pitchers have joined the Red Sox—Walter Kinney of the late lamented Texas league, and Bobby Carruthers, a Vermont collegian. The latter, a southpaw, reported yesterday, while Kinney, who is a right-hander, pulled in town today.

Manager Barrow knows very little about either flinger.

"Kinney was recommended to me by several scouts," he says. "He's a good pitcher and a real hitter. Carruthers pitched for a college up in Vermont and won a lot of games. Then he went down to the Singer Machine Co. team, in New Jersey, and won a lot more.

"He's a southpaw, and I need a left-hander to pitch to the boys in batting practice. That's why I signed him up. He may make good and may not. But we need him and so here he is."

Manager Barrow is optimistic with the brown series confronting him. He's shy on pitchers, but then so is everybody else. Being a great friend of Jimmy Burke, Manager Barrow was confident of having the double-header due in this series put over.

Doing that he can use his regular hurlers—Jones today, Bush tomorrow and Mays the day after—and still not ruffle his team a bit. After swamping the Indians and White Sox, Manager Ed is confident of ultimate success.

FRANK CORRY DOWN TO COMPETE IN BRASSARD

Corbett's Corner

This is the seventh of a series of articles which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning the career of the late Stanley Ketchel, one of the most marvelous ring warriors of all time. The next instalment will appear tomorrow.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

The greatest battle that Stanley Ketchel ever fought was the one he lost to Jack Johnson. But the courageous white warrior didn't have his colors in defeat until he had doled out to the huge negro a beating such as no other man had ever given to him before.

As the men squared off in Colma., Cal., Oct. 16, 1909, the 10,000 spectators gasped at the disparity in sizes between the two men.

It was a giant against a pigmy, a negro weighing well beyond 200 against a white boy of 160.

A wave of pity swept through the crowd for little Stanley Ketchel, who, with the rare courage that had made him the most elected to tackle a fighter who just then was regarded as the greatest human fighting machine in the world.

Through the first round of that fight both men sparred cautiously, each trying to feel out the other; each trying to get the other to open up and show what he had.

But in the second round impatience over-mastered Ketchel. The waiting game was not to his liking.

Although Johnson was bigger in every way, Ketchel had the confidence that he was the negro's master. And he went on to prove it to the crowd.

CARRIED BATTLE TO JOHNSON.

From then on through many rounds of whirlwind fighting, the little white man carried the battle to his massive foe.

Ketchel aimed his attack at the negro's stomach, figuring that it was his weak spot, and time and again Johnson winced under the impact of the short, jerky punches that Stanley sent crashing into his middle section.

Johnson purposely fell into clinches as often as possible, hoping he could work his famous "coming-out-uppercut" on the white man.

The first time Johnson tried it, as they were coming out of a clinch, the blow missed Ketchel's jaw by the barest fraction.

That taught Ketchel a lesson in caution and from them on he protected his jaw very carefully when the referee was breaking us.

In the eighth Johnson elected to sling with Ketchel and the two men stood in the centre of the ring, slashing away at each other while the crowd went into a frenzy of excitement.

TRICKED BY KETCHEL.

In the ninth Ketchel came out of his corner as though tired. Johnson, falling into the trap, rushed Ketchel. But before the negro could land, Ketchel leaped at him like a tiger and sent three solid blows to the body and another to the negro's head before he could get away.

Johnson backed to the ropes with Ketchel after him. Ketchel swung for Johnson's jaw and the negro ducked just in time.

The momentum of the swing turned Ketchel completely around and almost sent him spinning through the ropes.

Toward the end of the ninth Johnson clinched Ketchel and began wrestling him. Then he spun him away, and as he did so he put all the power of his huge body in a blow for Ketchel's stomach.

It struck its target, and Ketchel doubled over.

Those who saw the fight always have felt that the punch which Johnson delivered then was the one that ultimately whipped the white man. 7

Rabbit Quits Braves Friday; Back to Post as Gunner's Mate

St. Louis, July 16.—The Braves and Cardinals were to resume their series on Robison Field this afternoon. They laid off yesterday, the game having been played as a section of Sunday's double-header.

Pat Ragan was the sharp-shooter Manager Stallings had groomed to make it three straight over the Hendricks clan.

Rabbit Maranville quits his mates after Friday's game. Then his furlough will be up and he will return to his post as gunner's mate on the super-dreadnaught Pennsylvania.

Pitcher George Smith, secured from the Giants in exchange for Bunny Hearn, was expected today by Stallings; in fact, the young hurler is already a day late joining the Tribe.

Stallings is very sweet on Dick Murphy, the young outfielder whom he secured from the Sioux Moines club of the late lamented Western League. The rookie made an impressive start in Sunday's twin bill when he smashed out five hits. All went out on a line and one was good for three bases.

SHEVLIN IN TRIM FOR HIS FUSS WITH BRITTON

CARD AT ARMORY A. C.

Main event: Eddie Shevlin of Roxbury, vs. Jack Britton of Chicago, twelve rounds.

Semi-finals: Shaver O'Brien of South Boston, vs. Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York, eight rounds.

Second preliminary: Charley Parker of the South End, vs. Jim Ferris of the South End, six rounds.

Curtain raisers: Gerard Gianni of Lawrance, vs. Willie Roberts of Cambridge, six rounds.

Referee: Larry Conley and Maffit Flaherty.

Time of first bout—8:15 P. M.

By RINGSIDE.

Dan Morgan, manager of Jack Britton, Chicago welterweight, has assured Manager Ivy Lewis of the Armory A. A. that he will be on hand with his battler for tonight's twelve-round skirmish with Eddie Shevlin, Roxbury's flatie pride, at the Arena.

Britton was billed to box at a patriotic fund show in New York tonight, but Morgan claims that Jack's fame was merely used to boost the show along.

This is a match Shevlin has been angling for all year and Yeoman Eddie is confident he will prove himself the master of the former champion welterweight.

Shevlin has always been a satisfactory performer, nothing of the slacker variety in his make-up. Hub fans are also well aware of the brand of milling Britton can deal out. So a pepper party is in the offing.

Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York, and Shaver O'Brien of South, mingle in the eight-round semi-final; Charley Parker and Jim Ferris, both of the South End, will settle the championship of the South End in six rounds, and Gerard Gianni of Lawrence puts on the gloves with Willie Roberts of Cambridge.

Fitzsimmons and O'Brien are both southpaws. The New Yorker should be a dangerous customer by those who have seen him in action.

BAFFLES FINNIGAN, DOES FULTON-DEMPSEY BOUT

New York, July 16.—On again is the Fred Fulton-Jack Dempsey fight. Now it is Jersey City that's going to put it on; date, Saturday, July 27. It will be an eight-round affair, with Master Jolnnie Johnston, late manager of Ted (Kid) Lewis, Madison Square Garden and other big things, as floor manager, according to report.

Fulton is reported to be en route to New York from his home at Rochester, Minn., to go into training—again.

BILLY MISKE FAR TOO FEROCIOUS FOR MADDEN

Jersey City, N. J., July 16.—Billy Miske slammed Bartley Madden all over the ring at the Armory A. C. The only round in which Madden stood up to his opponent was the first, but from that session on he grew weaker and weaker.

Madden had his only sweet call in the fifth, when Miske lifted him from the floor with a powerful slam to the jaw. The weights: Miske 178, Madden 184.

NIFTY CARD EMBRACES BROOKS-ADAIR BOOKING

The Commercial A. C. has completed its card for Friday night. It will be Terry Brooks of the West End, vs. Barney Adair of New York, twelve rounds; Young Vito of Chelsea, vs. Sailor Jack Dailey of New York, six rounds; Eddie Barcelli of Quincy vs. Kid Francis of Lawrence, eight rounds, and Charley Parker of the South End, vs. Kid Lee of Chelsea, six rounds.

JOE WOOD HAS MADE GOOD IN OUTFIELD

Hugh Fullerton Lauds Former Boston Favorite—It's Now Capt. Harry Tuthill

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Joe Wood's outfielding with the Cleveland team has improved so much that he now ranks among the foremost of the outer gardeners in the American League and he probably will become another of the famous pitchers who, after retiring, became great outfielders.

The list includes Elmer Smith, Cy Seymour, Mike Donlin and many others of the older days, and this year Babe Ruth and Wood are added, and Ray Caldwell may be.

Wood, by the way, had a brother who also was a pitcher and later an outfielder. This brother pitched one season in the old International League and one day was knocked out by a bleacherite. The umps had just announced that Wood would pitch and, as he was dusting off the plate, the bleacherite rose and in a loud voice proclaimed:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the pitcher today is Smoky Joe Wood's brother, Smokeless Pete."

And Pete ain't a man that was so broken up that he gave four bases on balls in succession.

HARRY TUTHILL IN ARMY.

Harry Tuthill is now a captain in the United States army, and this is a fact that never for cookies would happen to fall under his command. Harry has retired from his activities with the Detroit Tigers, with the West Pointers in football, and other commands to get into the army, which he succeeded in doing after many efforts.

For years Tuthill, after serving as coach, trainer and advisor to boxers, racers, football and baseball players, has been the right hand of Hughie Jennings. It was Harry who kept down any tendency toward lack of discipline in the Detroit club. He did it by heroic methods.

Ten only ago there was a young player, who is now a star, who came into the big league with an idea that he was going to be a hard hitter. He would have to maul, manhandle and whip every other player. He started through the team, and in a few weeks was the shadow of the club, having whipped everyone who looked crosseyed at him.

HAS FRESH KID TAMED.

Tuthill saw what was the matter. The kid was cursed by his fistic ability, and liable to be ruined as a player. There was on the team at that time a husky youngster who could fight, and rather liked to fight.

Tuthill advising Jennings that they frame a battle and have the big catcher subdue the battling youngster, and then, when hard battles to settle the question, but the youngster was tamed, and the result was that it wasn't.

The catcher decided that having whipped the youngster who had whipped him, he was now the boss of the walk. He became a pest, and Tuthill, with a sigh, framed up a battle for himself, and he tamed the catcher after a hard battle, and received the respect of everybody.

COLBY ACADEMY COULD GET THE RUNS, ANYWAY

The season enjoyed by the nine of Colby Academy of New London, N. H., is worthy of mention because of the extraordinary scoring done by that institution. Colby lads rode won 3 to 2 from Cushing Academy in their first game, defeating Cushing, 13 to 1 in the return encounter. Colby also beat Athol High, 10 to 0; beat Dartmouth freshmen, 17 to 6; beat Tilton Seminary, 6 to 2, beat Hoxlerness, 20 to 0; beat Proctor Academy, 7 to 6; beat Exeter, 11 to 0, and the Harvard freshmen, 8 to 5. In the ten games Colby made 138 runs.

AMHERST BOARD QUIET ON JOHN HENRY'S CASE

Amherst, July 16.—The formal finding of the Brighton Draft Board in the case of John Henry of the Braves, under which his occupation was declared non-essential, although no recommendation was made to change his deferred classification, was received by Local Draft Board No. 2. No action was taken on it.

Clerk David H. Keedy of the board stated that over urgent matters in connection with the classification of June 5 registrants are under way, and the Henry matter will be allowed to rest.

ARCHER AND GETZ ARE LET OUT BY PIRATES

Pittsburgh, July 16.—Jimmy Archer, veteran catcher, has been given his unconditional release by the Pittsburgh baseball club, Guy Getz, utility infielder, goes to the Indianapolis (American Association) club, in part payment for Shortstop Elkan.

Archer has taken part in twenty-three games this year and has a batting average of only .155.

FULTZ ENTERS SERVICE WITH AVIATION CORPS

David L. Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, and former big league and Brown University outfielder, has been appointed physical director and athletic instructor to the Aviation Corps, with the rank of first lieutenant. He is under orders to report at Mineola, New Haven, July 16.—The magnates of the Eastern League voted to continue the season, although the circuit has been badly crippled. All of the clubs except Providence and Waterbury were represented at the meeting.

Y. M. C. A. MAKING BATS FOR MEN IN FRANCE

Supply From This Side Is Inadequate so Factory Is Built "Over There."

A bat shortage is a serious thing, for the fighting man, back from the trenches for a breathing spell, finds nothing so restful as a good, fast game of ball.

To solve the problem the Y. M. C. A. has erected a factory in France and is turning out a bat which, while not as good as the "made in America" brand, is helping to fill the bill.

The difficulty has been to get the proper kind of wood, but the head of the factory is experimenting with various varieties and experts to find the right thing.

Bats are not the only thing the Y. M. C. A. is manufacturing in France. A letter just received by Neil McMillan, Jr., head of the association's construction department, from Theodore Brown, director of construction in France, tells of the work being done there.

"We are using five warehouses, chiefly in connection with repair work," Mr. Brown wrote. "They are so situated that deliveries of roofing paper, plumbing apparatus, nails, roofing, etc., can be made by means of four five-ton trucks, relieving the men in the field from long delays made necessary by rail shipment.

Added to this we have two little factories now completing, two sawmills are turning out quite a bit of our own construction work and hope to do more.

"The object is not to have so expensive a factory as would require the tying up of a great deal of money, but to put ourselves in a position to know costs of material and labor, to guide us in our contracts and purchases and to enable us to undertake special jobs of our own.

"We have already, for instance, in getting baseball bats shipped in sufficient quantities and so we have hold of some hard wood and are trying this game on just now. It works admirably."

HARRY MYERS CAN STAY; MIKE REGAN IS TO GO

East Liverpool, O., July 16.—Outfielder Harry (Hi) Myers has been granted permission to finish the season with the Brooklyn Dodgers by the draft board of this district. The board refuses to class baseball as a non-essential industry.

Thomas, N. Y., July 15.—Pitcher Mike Regan of the Cincinnati Reds will leave in the next draft, according to word from this district. That is expected to go between July 22 and 27.

GREEN GOLD WAKES UP AND LANDS STAKE RACE

New York, July 16.—Showing a reversal of form, Green Gold won the Tarrytown Selling Stakes, worth $2,000, at Empire City. Kate Bright was easily the best of the rest of the field, while Neptune finished third.

The winner had all the speed and won easily by two lengths. Elmendorf, the favorite, was badly outrun all the way.

COLLYER'S SELECTIONS. AT EMPIRE CITY

1—Whippoorwill, Aldebaran, Sunny Hill.
2—Past Master, Puts and Calls, Dreadnought.
3—High Noon, Jusqu' au Bout, Top o' the Morning.
4—Fly Away, Kiss Again.
5—Greater, Matisee Idol, Jack of Spades.
6—The Boy, Thistledon, Baltetrade.

Most probable winner—THE BOY.

The Absorbing Story Is Being Told in Motion Pictures at Modern and Beacon Theatres This Week

"BETTER than anything in the world—next to you. About that Twombly chap, Cele. It would be wonderful if you could"——

"Johnny, if you remember mother's memory lovingly, there's another thing you've got to remember. She loved father. We're her children and his. We owe him just as much as we owe her memory, and we aren't going to change his house or nag at him for his little ways or act like ungrateful snobs—now are we?

"Oh Cele." The boy flung his arms about her and held her close while he sobbed out his story—a pretty little chorus girl he had met outside of Boston at Thorncroft Inn—some more of her chorus girl friends. A red racer full of youngsters who had taken a bit more sparkling Burgundy than they could handle. A crash into a fence—some frightened, terrified girls, a rescue car, a hospital, a police court—expulsion from college.

An ugly, sordid little story of a boy's desire for a good time, of flaming emotions, of cheap passion—and of the price.

"Johnny! Mother wanted you to be a gentleman and me to be a lady. That's what father has been working for. How do you think he'll feel when he hears this?"

Not Much Comfort

"Is that all you have to say to me, Cele? Never a word to comfort or help me any? Just scare me to death over what father'll do. Hell kick me out maybe—how do I know what an ignorant Irishman is going to do once he feels angry enough?"

Father still liked to wear his collar on a convenient mantelpiece. Also brocaded slippers for house wear appealed to him far more than did the pumps Johnny was intent on shoeing into the social scheme of things. Father was still impossible from Johnny's point of view. But Johnny had become impossible from Harvard's point of view—which, whether that young gentleman believed it or not, is more historically important than the first fact.

There was a wonderful reunion at the dock. It continued during a session in the compartment marked off with "M" down on the region presided over by custome officers.

Cecilia had traveled across Europe in the midst of a tragic fanfare of trumpets. Troops were mobilizing. A war was on—it probably would tie things up pretty badly for six months or so. Some people had a dreadful time getting passage home. She and her chaperone had been rather fortunate. They were caught in the Austrian Tyrol, and they had been helped through the tangle of troop trains by a young American she had met once years before—a Mr. Twombly.

Cecilia had never forgotten her hero—and when they met again it hurt (her pride only—she liked to think) that he had forgotten her. Cecilia, did not know that she had grown to be the sort of woman no man would ever forget.

None of these things mattered—what did matter was that she was at home again with her beloveds—her three boys. Yes, Father McGowan was there on the dock too.

A good-looking young man, whom she introduced as Mr. Twombly, came over from the "T" section to greet her.

"This, daddy, is the guardian angel who brought Mrs. Carlton and me safely home again. Don't you think we ought to postpone thanking him now and try to persuade him to come down for a week-end presently, so we can really thank him?"

"Thank you kindly sor, for all you did for my Celie—she's the light of me eyes and them as make friends with my girl is friends with Jerry Madden," said that gentleman.

"Father means well, Mr. Twombly, and I hope you haven't so much sensitiveness to a bit of the brogue that you'll refuse to come down this week-end and listen to it," interposed Johnny with an air of good fellowship and understanding.

There was a moment of dreadful panic in Cecilia's heart. If Mr. Twombley was going to be snobbish about father, that was bad enough—but what could he think of Johnny for apologizing for his own father?

Johnny a Snob

What Twombly thought of Johnny was not revealed—not just then.

What Cecilia thought of Johnny was just then of far greater importance. The young brother sat on the edge of the Chaise lougue in his sister's room that night while she smoothed down some of the lacy feminine fripperies her maid had unpacked and not arranged quite to her liking.

"Thank God, we can have a real talk, sis! The best of the old man's old habits is the one that sends him to bed promptly at 10 every night. He is impossible, isn't he? That Twombly chap seemed to be the real thing. He isn't old Twombly's grandson, is he? You know that his family really belongs to the very smartest set. If you managed to get in with a chap like that over in Europe you should have married him before he got home and saw what an utterly impossible person you own for a father. Really, Cecilia, you'll find the governor a dreadful handicap."

"He's our father, Johnny—it was his brick that smashed a way for us right into the innermost circle of society's glass house."

"His brick! Cele, he has a brick lying on a red velvet cushion down in one of those horrible public cabinets of his. . . . By the way, I hope you are planning to do the house over. It's as impossible as he is."

Cecilia crossed the room to her brother's side and laid her fingers on the lad's waving dark hair. "Do you remember mother, Johnny?" she asked.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

Talk Like a Brother.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For years I have been friends with two sisters, both of whom are of about my own age (nineteen). They and their father have always considered me as one of the family, and I, having no sisters of my own, have in a measure, adopted them.

Recently, the older of the two girls has been keeping late hours and is going with company of which neither her father, nor her sister nor myself approve. I am personally acquainted with these companions of hers (having gone to high school with them), and know that I would never allow my sister, if I had one, to associate with them.

Can you please suggest some way of my helping this girl without giving her the impression that it is a case of jealousy on my part? HARVEY.

SINCE you really feel that this girl is getting into bad company you might easily enough want to warn her, even if you didn't consider her a bad sister. What does it matter whether she thinks you jealous or not? You aren't selfishly considering yourself in your position, but the help you can give her. Just bend every energy to wean her away from her evil companions. Try to find for her the good times and enjoyment she craves, and the useful companionship she wants outside of the group of people who are unfit for her to know. Give her something "just as good"—something better! Every girl longs for gayety and amusement, and the best argument against the wrong sort of companionship may be to prove that equal happiness can be found with right sort of companionship.

ERRORS IN DIET

By Brice Belden, M. D.

TEA and coffee can be used in moderation by persons in good health and of stable nervous system. The caffein contained in them injures the nerves and heart when taken in excess.

Caffein produces a false sense of vigor by dulling the sense of fatigue. Naturally, those who are most unstable nervously and in poorest general condition fall easy victims to the pernicious allurements of caffein. Their fatigue and pains and aches lessen or disappear for varying periods after a dose of caffein in the form of coffee or tea, only to be followed after the effect has worn off by greater fatigue and more intense pains, headaches, etc.

The withdrawal of tea or coffee from persons in poor condition who have been boosting themselves along on two or three cups a day of either or both beverages is sometimes a revelation of the potency of caffein, for in such circumstances a degree of exhaustion almost amounting to collapse may supervene. Along with this exhaustion there is intense headache.

Another fault of diet has to do with the use of salt and water. Upon these two things depends the density of the body fluids. Enough water must be taken to insure the solution of nutritive substances, for the cells of the body cannot use these substances unless they are properly dissolved. Moreover, enough water must be taken to insure the removal from the system of damaging poisons, for they, too, must be dissolved.

Now, plain water tends to damage the cells of the body. It must contain a certain proportion of salt to be acceptable and useful in the physical economy. This proportion is very definite—sixth-tenths of one per cent.

The density of the circulating fluid depends upon the maintenance of the proper percentage of contained salt. If there is an excess of salt, which, it can readily be seen, produces very great density of the body fluids, with resulting interference with tissue function.

Women in War Work

By Elizabeth Ellam,

Special Agent, United States Employment Service, Department of Labor.

Dear Miss Ellam: Is it possible for you to furnish me with a list of paid workers required by the government for service overseas? I am anxious to go to France, am a French scholar and feel that I can be of use there, but I am unable to give voluntary service. I must have a paid position, or one at least that will furnish me with enough money to pay my living expenses while I am there. I am willing to enlist in such service "for the duration of the war" if there is any opportunity.

Abington. D. A. F.

THE government has few if any paid positions for workers across the seas. There are so many women who have sufficient money to maintain themselves and who require no remuneration, that practically all of the work there is volunteer.

The Y. W. C. A. is to send a group of fifty secretaries in August and these positions will pay small salaries. The women who secure them must have secretarial training, training in organization and group management, as well as a knowledge of French.

The Y. M. C. A. wants 250 women to send to their canteens along in September, but these positions are not entirely self supporting. The government has called several times for telephone operators, and in these positions, French is required. However, the last call has been filled to date, and names are being taken in readiness for the next one. In addition to a knowledge of French, a knowledge of telephone operating is also necessary.

The Red Cross is sending nurses, but obviously the requirement here is that a woman shall be a trained nurse.

The greatest difficulty of all is the securing of a passport from the United States government. For the benefit of the many who have not apparently understood the situation, I repeat that no woman will be given a passport who has a brother, father, husband or son in the service. Any woman attempting to secure a passport must show a statement from the organization that she represents, stating that her services are absolutely necessary, or a request from the French government, asking for her services in that country. Every day there seem new obstacles in the path of the women who are so anxiously seeking passports, but judging from reports that come from France, there is ground for these obstacles.

There is one way for the woman who desires canteen work for the Y. W. C. A. to secure the $500 necessary for her own contribution to her yearly expense, if she will take it. It is generally easy for a college woman to raise this sum from her fraternity, her class or her clubs, as they are generally anxious to have a representative at the front. The same is true of many churches—and many women who have had no other way have secured the necessary sum from their church affiliations.

Dear Miss Ellam—Can you tell me what course is necessary to prepare for the postal clerks' examination. Am a bookkeeper and cashier and want to become a postal clerk. Do I have to get application blanks to fill out before taking the examination?

Dorchester. MISS M. E. C.

Tests are given in the following branches in examination for postal clerk: Twenty words in spelling, simple arithmetic, letter writing, not less than 125 words on one of two subjects given, penmanship and copying, and the reading of addresses. Apply for information and application blanks at the United States Civil Service Commission on the fifteenth floor of the Custom House. Examinations for Boston are to be held on August 13.

He got the job.—Puck.

GRAYFISH FOR FOOD VALUE

"The Bureau of Fisheries urges the public to use the grayfish because of its economical and nutritive value."

GRAYFISH CHOPS.

Two cans grayfish, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup cream or milk.

Drain, bone and flake two cans of grayfish. Add to the fish a tablespoon of chopped parsley, a cup of dry bread crumbs, a saltspoon of pepper, a pinch of salt and the juice of an onion. Melt together three tablespoons of flour, one of butter and a cup of cream or milk. When blended and slightly thickened set aside to cool. When cool, mix with the fish. Shape the mixture into chops, dip them in egg, then in crumbs and fry in hot fat. Have ready enough potatoes fried in stick shape to insert as chop bones. Garnish with parsley.

GRAYFISH SALAD.

One can grayfish, 1 cup finely chopped celery.

Mix with three large tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and dash of red pepper. Mix lightly with fish and celery and serve on lettuce. A boiled dressing might be used in place of the mayonnaise. One cup dried cucumbers may be substituted for the celery.

GRAYFISH CHOWDER, NEW ENGLAND STYLE.

Three cans grayfish, ¼ pound salt pork, 8 or 10 medium-sized potatoes, 2 or 3 medium-sized onions, 4 pilot crackers, 1 pint milk, 1 cup cream (or increase quantity of milk), 1 tablespoon butter, salt and pepper to taste.

Drain and bone 3 cans of grayfish, leaving the fish in large pieces. Put two slices of diced salt pork in the bottom of the chowder kettle and let them melt and slightly cook. Then cover them with a layer of fish. Over the fish place a layer of finely sliced onions, and over that a layer of thickly sliced raw potato; dot with lumps of butter, dust with pepper and salt, and put on a layer of pilot crackers broken in large pieces. Continue the layers in this order until the fish is used up; then add 2 cups of milk. Boil evenly for 40 minutes, add a cup of hot cream (or milk), and serve.

Shall Women Propose?

BEATRICE FAIRFAX SAYS "YES"

She Advises a Correspondent of Thirty to Overcome the Old Prejudice and Seek Happiness

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a working woman in the early thirties. I have traveled considerably and have had my full share of experiences and have gained a fairly broad knowledge of the world. During the past half-dozen years I have become interested in an exceedingly attractive young man, who is now nearly twenty-five.

My feeling for him could easily become a devoted love if I were given any encouragement, but he is a most unusually cold-hearted young person. He likes everybody, enjoys fun and a good time, and I am sure will never marry anyone unless the woman does the courting.

It is useless for you to say that his youth explains his indifference, because my observation of young men shows that they are generally too ardent and too reckless. I cannot bring myself to make all the advances, so that there is a constant battle going on within me as to whether I should refuse the occasional opportunities I have to meet him and so drop his companionship altogether and forever, thus gradually banishing the heartaches that come in between, or else whether I should overcome my old-fashioned prejudices and go in to try to win him (as I know some woman will be bold enough to do eventually).

He is not now interested in any woman, and I am sure if he were fond of me we should be able to get a great deal of happiness out of life. It is hard for me to give him up (what little there is to give up), for I am lonely. But I cannot be satisfied with half measures, and I am wondering if I should not try to make myself contented with some less congenial man who is more anxious for my love.

I realize this is a problem which all the philosophers of the ages have not solved, and it is a subject worthy of the contemplation of a Balzac, but another opinion than one's own is always interesting, so I should appreciate yours given in the columns of the Washington Times. J. J. T.

My correspondent has written me an interesting letter, dealing with an entirely modern situation.

The remarkable feature of her case is that she is facing it so honestly and squarely. That she does not complicate the facts with emotion or self-deception.

And though the situation is typical of the modern business world and the relationshp of older women to younger men, the clear thinking she has brought to bear on her case is unusual.

A great many women would have seen this affair in the terms of grand opera. The boy would probably have been held responsible for something, and they might readily have concluded the account with a wail of self-pity.

Unusual Honesty.

Such honesty is certainly deserving of happiness. It is a good keystone upon which to build the foundations of a home.

There seem to appear, to be two questions to this case. Is a woman free to choose the man she wants for her husband? And granting that she has this right, is it fair for her to influence a man so much younger than herself?

Traditionally, the man has always had the privilege of selection. But has he, really? According to some of the clearest of modern thinkers, among them Darwin and Bernard Shaw, it would seem that he has had very little to do with the matter.

He has invariably been selected when the lady really wanted him.

There have been, of course, many exceptions to the rule, but as the arithmetic, grammar and other instruments of childish torture have a way of asserting, it is the exception that proves the rule.

If there is any survivor of the early Victorian days now living, such a person would probably say that the highly intelligent woman who has come to me should regard the young man "with downcast eyes and averted shoulder."

For such was the prescription of feminine fascination, according to novelists of the period.

But after reading some of the memoirs of that date, one is inclined to think that despite the formula of "the cast eyes," etc., our great-grandmothers might not have been entirely guiltless of helping our great-grandfathers to "come to the point."

May Show Her Preference

Without loss of dignity or self-respect, a woman may show her preference for the man of her choice in dozens of little ways.

In fact, she has been doing this for countless ages, though there has always been a sort of decorous conspiracy on the part of the powers that be to make the man believe he is managing the entire affair.

At the present time we are franker than we were in those early Victorian times; we admit more than we did. There may be fewer "downcast eyes," but there are also a corresponding number of frank, truthful ones.

I am sufficiently old-fashioned to object to a woman's taking such matters into her hands with a challenging "watch me" attitude. Nothing could be more offensive or in worse taste, but there are ways and means like Priscilla's: Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" that are nothing more than innocent coquetry.

Is He Too Young?

In regard to our second consideration, is a woman justified in choosing a man somuch younger than herself? One can only consider the question from observation—and past history.

That marriages of this type are generally happy we've only to look about us to see. While, of course, there are the well-known historical cases of Disraeli and his wife, George Eliot and Cross, and the case of the late Bishop Pinkney of Maryland, whose wife is said to have embroidered his christening robe.

The reason for the success of such marriages seems to be that they blend companionship on equal terms with the protective quality of the maternal instinct.

In the present case my correspondent would not be taking the fortunate young man away from some one else. Nor marrying him for his money, since they are both bread-winners, working shoulder to shoulder.

I think if she decides to "overcome her old-fashioned prejudices," there is every chance of their being happy. A woman so honest and intelligent could not fail to make a good wife.

Milk Weed

Now that milk is so dear, some enterprising person ought to transplant from other countries certain trees which yield this precious fluid.

In the British Guiana and the West Indies, particularly on the bank of the river Demerara, there grows a tree known to the natives as the "Hya-hya," which yields a juice slightly richer and thicker than cow's milk from its bark and pith. The tree is about forty feet high and eighteen inches in circumference when full grown, and the natives use its juice as we use milk. It being perfectly harmless, and mixing well with water.

The Chinese have a tree—they call it "Kiriaghuma"—which yields a fluid in all respects like milk; while in the forests of Para grows a tree called the "Massenodendron," which gives a milk-like juice which can be kept for an indefinite time, and shows no tendency to become sour. On the other hand, certain trees in the valleys of Angola and in Cayuga yield a similar fluid which, when exposed to the air, begins to form into a kind of cheese, which very soon becomes sour. In the Canary Islands there is a tree called "Tabaya Dulce," of which the milk, thickened into a jelly, is considered a delicacy.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR BIG MOVIE BALL

Preparations are progressing apace for the movie ball to be held at the Boston Arena next Friday evening. This comes as a crowning event of a very busy week for the motion picture fraternity, who hold a convention in this city, both the National Association of the industry and the exhibitors gathering here for the purpose of prosecuting official business and electing officers for the coming year.

It is because of these conventions that there will be present so many stars of the motion pictures. More than 100 major luminaries of the screen will be present at the ball, where the public will have opportunity to greet and observe their favorite stars in person.

Among the stars who positively will appear are Elsie Ferguson, Billie Burke, Alice Brady, Anita Stewart and her own company, Harry Morey, Violet Mersereau, Agnes Ayres, Edward Earle, Betty Blythe, Marguerite Snow and King Baggott.

399 COOKS AND BAKERS ARE CALLED FOR ARMY

Washington, July 16.—A call for 399 limited service men to serve as cooks and bakers was issued today by Provost Marshal-General Crowder. Of these California will furnish 128, to be sent to the Presidio; Louisiana 36, colored, to Fort Riley, and New York 235, to Camp Upton, all on Aug. 1. Selective service men may volunteer for the call up to July 23, after which they will be taken if the quota has not been filled.

AFTER "BOOTTLEGGERS" IN CITY OF FALL RIVER

Newport, July 16.—"Bootlegging" liquor into Newport from Fall River must stop, or the latter city will find itself as dry as Newport. This is the gist of an order received by Chief of Police Feeney of Fall River, from the office of the Department of Justice, in charge of John T. Sullivan, who is temporarily a storehouse for all kinds of liquor taken from bootleggers.

ALIEN ENEMY ORDERED INTERNED IN SOUTH

Edward Schelbert, a German alien enemy, who has been confined at the local internment camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., by Attorney-General Gregory.

Schelbert was taken into custody three months ago by order of Attorney Judd Dewey.

GOOD SUMMER BILL AT KEITH'S

Clifton Crawford offers his Boston friends many new numbers and some inimitable characterizations in his act at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week, where he heads an exceptionally good Summer bill. His burlesque on the movies is about the only thing in his act that is not new, but it is a feature that no one regrets seeing twice.

Tom Toy Barnes is here after a long absence, with Bessie Crawford as his partner. They also present a comedy act, in which characterization is more or less sacrificed in favor of burlesque. But their act is funny from start to finish—and perhaps it will also be educational to magazine salesmen. You know?

Elida Morris is a Keith favorite who is always assured a hearty welcome. She sings effectively and was warmly applauded. The Ford Sisters are a nationality known dancers, offer a charming act which gives them an excellent opportunity to display their grace and terpsichorean techniques. Their dances are original and delightful, and Arthur Anderson, their pianist, adds much to the effectiveness of their offering.

Joe Cook, the "one-man vaudeville show," received quite an ovation as a result of his impersonations of various celebrities. He is a certainly a versatile citizen and deserved all the kind words and applause that last night's audience bestowed upon him.

Miss Claire Vincent, in a comedy which includes a tabloid "thriller," is another hit. She is capably supported by A. Cornwall Frank H. H. Gardner and Norman Wendell. Other acts were Jack and Foster Ford, in a novel comedy sketch; Tojetti and Bennett, whirlwind dancers, and the Hollowayd and Lee Walker trio.

The Hearst-Pathe Weekly presents a number of interesting news pictures of timely interest, and a special feature of the program is a series of official war pictures showing the work on the Italian and French fronts that illustrate the spirit of America and the Allies.

GLOBE THEATRE—Yesterday at the Globe Theatre two big photoplays and a Charlie Chaplin comedy were presented as the bill to remain unchanged through the week. "The Hun Within" was shown in the William Fox production of Roy Norton's article and the Globe and its gold hunters. "The Plunderer." Mr. Norton is a writer of virile fiction, his characters being strongly sketched, and action predominating. This feature is formed of both love and the motion camera, and perfect vehicles for forcible actors like William Farnum. And this characterization is one of the best that Mr. Farnum has given the screen. There was also shown in the photoplay, "Old Wives For Now," a filming of David Graham Phillips' story, and Charlie Chaplin in "The Vagabond."

PARK THEATRE—The program at the Park Theatre yesterday was decidedly popular, judging from the large audiences. The bill shows Bert Lytell in "The Famous Mrs. Fair," a six-act photoplay which gives Mr. Lytell wide scope in which to display his versatile talents. How he captures a band of thieves and then discovers their store of supplies, and having been captured himself, is revealed by the arrival of the American soldiers, forms a most interesting and thrilling plot of the present day war. Then comes "The Highest Bidder," is the other feature on the program and her portrayal of Nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks, then test the strength and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. It is not a patent medicine, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach, the manufacturers guarantee successful and entire satisfaction or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

"CLEOPATRA" FILM AT THE ORPHEUM

What probably was the best combination of vaudeville and film bills ever offered at Loew's Orpheum Theatre was presented yesterday as the first half-week's program. Good as the vaudeville was the screen offering took precedence through the presentation of the William Fox production of "Cleopatra" with Theda Bara as the sorceress of the Nile glorified in history, drama and fiction, all four acts of the picture forming the foundation of the screen version.

Miss Bara's talents in impersonating sirens for the motion camera is too well known to require extolation. Sufficient to say that she had the character of the greatest of all sirens the world has known to enact, and to her histrionics she has done full justice to the character.

The vaudeville had two headliners, first Marion Davies made her Boston screen debut at the Beacon and Modern Theatres yesterday in the filming of Katherine Haviland Taylor's story, "Cecilia of the Pink Roses." Miss Davies is a most appealing one, telling of the experiences of a young woman, the daughter of a poor preacher, who suddenly acquires means and sends her to a fashionable finishing school. Of course nothing with the scion of her fastidious schoolmates do not daunt her, and she persevered on her award way through many disheartening circumstances. The beauty of Miss Davies is sure to take her far in her chosen field, and the impression she makes in her first screen venture is most pleasing. The companion photoplay was "Sandy," with Jack Pickford in the leading role. The first screening of Alice Hegan Rice's popular story, detailing the adventures of a Scotch lad who is found a stowaway on an ocean liner where he experiences a sweet girl from Kentucky.

TWO HURLED FROM AUTO IN E. BOSTON ACCIDENT

Two men were thrown out when their automobile steering gear broke on Remington street, East Boston, today, and the machine swerved into the curb and tipped over. Henry Brown, chauffeur, was bruised on one elbow, forehead and nose. He lives at No. 46 Trident street. Wesley Hall, also of Revere, owner of the car, escaped with a shaking up. Both were taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital.

Editorial for Fathers and Mothers

Be Careful of Your Boys Suddenly Earning Large Weekly Incomes

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company

Boys in their teens are earning in war time wages that were paid to full grown men before the war.

Ten, twelve, fifteen dollars or more are earned readily by boys that are still children.

Fathers and mothers should take care that this sudden earning of money does not harm the boys now and unfit them for serious effort, real work, in days to come.

TO THE MOTHERS:

If your boy is working, do you know just exactly how much he gets? Do you know WHAT HE DOES WITH THE MONEY?

Are you by any chance among those who foolishly say, "Willie worked for the money, let him spend it as he likes"?

Do you know that there is nothing more disastrous for a child, more dangerous to ambition, more demoralizing to youth, than to have the spending of a considerable sum of money, even as much as five or ten dollars a week?

And do not forget that from twelve to seventeen is the most dangerous period in a boy's life, that money to spend multiplies temptation and the possibilities of foolish conduct.

The boy well brought up, no matter how rich his father, should be strictly limited in his spending money.

Fifty cents a week, or a dollar a week, or two dollars a week as the limit—if the father is wise.

And if the rich man who knows that his son will never want carefully controls his affection, regulates the child's spending, how much more should that spending be regulated by the mother and father who realize that in years to come the boy is to depend on the habits formed now in his childhood.

Do not imagine that you are acting the part of a good father or mother if you say, "Let Willie spend it since he earns it."

Teach him to save it. Limit the amount that he can have. And know exactly what he does and what he does spend FOR HIS GOOD.

TO THE FATHERS:

You know what a bad thing it is for men to get in the "easy come, easy go" habit.

If the boy is to succeed in life as a man, he must realize early that success means hard work.

The average lad now replies to an advertisement saying: "Help Wanted."

He asks first, "How much do you pay?"

When that question is answered, he says, "What do I have to do to get that money?"

The employer often finds it impossible to exercise the supervision and discipline that the young worker needs, if he is to become a workingman of any value.

The boy who leaves one place in these war times can easily find another—and he knows it.

It depends upon the father, consequently, to make his son realize what work means.

Tell your boy that while jobs are easy now, the days and the years that he is using will never come back again. He can get another job, but he cannot get another youth, another boyhood.

He will find that these days that seem the days of great opportunity, because a very young boy can make the wages of a man, are really days of great danger.

As you can spoil a young horse by improper training, so you can, irrevocably and beyond hope, spoil a boy. Tens of thousands unfortunately are being spoiled at this moment.

This is inevitable, it is one of the curses of war.

Conscientious fathers and mothers will look after their own children at least.

Don't let your boy getting high wages acquire spendthrift or vicious habits that will injure him for life.

Don't let your son, who finds a job so easily, make up his mind that discipline was not intended for the free American, or that success can be had without hard work.

Once-Overs

CAN YOU BORROW MONEY?

Have you gained the reputation of being "slow pay" and a poor manager, or are you willing to sacrifice some things to keep your credit good?

Ever consider that the best report you can get around about yourself is that you pay your bills promptly?

Sometime in the future you may have an opportunity come to you where you may need a little more money than you can lay hands on readily, and you want to negotiate a loan.

Would any of the men you know be willing to lend you money or go on your note at the bank?

There comes a time, sometimes many times, in a man's life when the ability to borrow money means the difference between success and failure.

It is your duty to yourself and to your family to conduct yourself so that you can get financial backing if you need it.

Never thought of it this way?

It may be that you have a reputation already among those whom you think know nothing of your personal matters. Be sure that it is a sound one in regard to money matters.

TELLING THE TRUTH TO YOUR WIFE

Mr. Married Man, you ought to be ashamed of yourself, bragging around to your friends about how easy it is for you to hoodwink your wife into thinking you have a business engagement, when you want to play a quiet little game of draw or do something else with the boys.

No, you are not giving her a square deal.

That little wife is your best pal, you know.

Supposing you were to find out that she is deceiving you about where she spends her time when she says she was at the Red Cross rooms or some other place?

No good, that argument "that it is different in case of a woman."

You have no more right to flimflam her than she has to flimflam you.

Deception on your part is just as bad as deception on hers.

Candor and fair dealing with your wife, at all times, pays bigger dividends than any other investment, as you can prove by your own friends and their condition of married happiness.

Would You Hire Yourself?

If you were boss of a concern and YOU came in and applied for a job—would you hire yourself? Every man at some time thinks he is getting the worst of it in the place where he works. If you're thinking that way sit down and take a look at yourself. Are you worth what you are getting? Which is the more important—the job or the clock? Isn't there many a man that would like to have your job and maybe do more with it than you are doing? WOULD YOU HIRE YOURSELF, if you were boss? If you WOULD don't worry; you are on the right track.—H. C.

Allies Must Counteract German Propaganda in Russia

Confidence of Millions Now Objects of Sinister German Influence Must Be Won Before Military Aid Can Be Given to Its Greatest Advantage

By JOSEPH A. CONRY.

AMERICANS are deeply interested, even though more or less confused, by the reported activities of the so-called Czecho-Slav, or Slovak army, operating in Siberia.

The Czechs come chiefly from Bohemia, marking the extreme westerly European home of the Slavic family.

The Slovaks are to be found in Bohemia, Moravia and Northern Hungary. They are all members of the great Slav family, of which Russia is the recognized head. These men, who constitute some of the finest soldiers in the world, have bitterly opposed the Austro-Hungary government and made no concealment of their opposition to the Central Powers at the opening of the great European war. Taken by conscription into the Austrian army, whenever occasion afforded they abandoned the Austrian armies and gladly gave themselves up as prisoners of war to the Russians. It is estimated that nearly a quarter of a million of these men are in Russia, who were either captured by the Russians or who deserted in squads and battalions from the Austrian army.

The Jugo-Slavs are members of the Slavic family to the south and southeast of Austria, coming from Serbia, Montenegro, Croatia, Bosnia and Dalmatia on the Adriatic Sea. These men are of the same racial spirit and hold the same feeling toward Austria as do their brethren of the North and West, and thousands of them have joined the Italian armies. It is estimated that there are upwards of twenty millions of these Slavs who are bitterly opposed to the Central Powers, and it was to these people specifically that President Wilson spoke in his splendid speech to Congress on the 8th of January last. The President had Bohemia in mind particularly when he insisted in the tenth article of his Peace Program that the people of Austria-Hungary should be accorded the freest opportunity of autonomous development, and in the next article he held that Rumania, Serbia and Monfenegro should be evacuated by the Central Powers and re-established as independent States.

The Czechos who were held in Russia as prisoners of war were liberated by the Russo-Germanic peace and immediately created military organizations to protect themselves from the German prisoners of war, who were at the conclusion of peace recalled to the German army. These Czechs are eager to establish a democratic government in Russia, but their first ambition is to deliver a blow at Germany. They number in their ranks some of the most accomplished men of Europe. They understand the value of organization. They are energetic and willing to fight.

Realizing the extent of the German propaganda in Russia, these Czechos built up an army for the purpose of counteracting the German influence and destroying pro-Germanism in Russia wherever it existed. They constitute the nucleus of a great army for upbuilding and supporting a democratic form of government in Russia. Americans have no idea of the extent of the German propaganda in Russia. It can be said without exaggeration that money running up into the hundreds of millions is being distributed throughout Russia by Germany for the purpose of creating a pro-German feeling among Russians and a feeling of antagonism to the allies and particularly against the Americans.

How best to counteract this evil influence is the problem which confronts the President. Many well-meaning, public-spirited men are insisting upon intervention in Russia on the part of the allies. Intervention is an unhappy word. It has a harsh sound and its general meaning implies the interference by one State with the internal affairs of another. In the Russian language Vmyeshatielstvo, intervention and interference are synonymous. The distinction which we give to the word "intervention" is missing in the Russian language, and German influence would be quick to place emphasis upon its meaning of interference. America has no ambition to interfere in the internal affairs of Russia; not intervention, but rather interim advice and assistance to all the people of Russia against a common enemy of Russia and the United States.

This should be the preface and foundation of all efforts on the part of the allies in order that their action cannot be wickedly distorted by the enemy. The Soviet, or Council, is the Russian Congress, and it is not to be wondered at if some of these men have been brought within the sphere of German influence. The Soviet is made up of men who are in sympathy with the Bolsheviki. This organization demands recognition, claiming to be the only representative form of government now in Russia. It will be remembered, however, that this Soviet, sitting in Moscow last March, confirmed the treaty of peace with Germany by an overwhelming vote, whereas the claim is set up that the "Constituent Assembly" has refused to recognize the treaty of Brest-Litovsk and that the "Constituent Assembly" insists that the Soviets are not real representatives of the Russian people. The "White Guards" decline to recognize the Bolsheviki. The "Reds" are the radicals.

Ukraine is that great tract of territory immediately adjacent to the Black Sea, consisting of several large States with a population of about twenty millions. The delegates from the Ukraine at Brest-Litovsk insisted that Ukraine should be recognized as an independent State. Its representative body is called the Rada, and from the earliest meeting of that peace conference the Rada delegates persisted in a separate consideration of the affairs of Ukraine against the protest of Trotsky, which protest, however, was ignored by the Germans. In January the Petrograd Soviet broke away from the Kieff Rada. The Kieff Rada delegates signed a separate treaty of peace with Germany, and thus Germany insisted upon recognizing the separate State of Ukraine.

It will thus be seen that Germany's policy is to dismember the Russian State. It insisted at the Brest-Litovsk conference in acquiring substantially all of the Baltic provinces, and Poland was promised a separate and independent government. Holding out the hopes of Independence to Ukraine, Germany assisted in setting up a separate government in that territory only to overthrow the Rada when that body legislated in a manner distasteful to Germany, and German troops now occupy that territory.

Russian territory now occupied by German troops is far greater in area than the old German Empire and almost equal in area to Germany and Austria combined. When the Bolsheviks abandoned Petrograd and set up the capital at Moscow, it was a signal that Petrograd was in danger of being occupied by German troops. Mr. Francis, the American ambassador, did not accompany the government to Moscow, but proceeded to Vologda.

As long as the White Sea remains in control of the allies and the road is clear to Archangel, which is about three hundred and fifty miles from Vologda, Mr. Francis occupies a comfortable position. Hundreds of millions of dollars worth of goods and army supplies are stored in the ports of Archangel and Kola. These supplies are naturally the object of German ambition, and, whenever German strength will permit, an effort will be made through Finland to capture these supplies. Archangel is on the White Sea, and Kola is a small port in Lapland on the Arctic Ocean.

Finland was promised independence by Germany, as was the Ukraine, and Finland will be expected to assist Germany in penetrating to Archangel and Kola. But Finland will never realize independence through Germany. The forests of Finland will be exploited by the Germans, as will the granaries of Ukraine be expected to supply the German soldiery and the cattle of the Baltic States will be turned into provisions for the German army.

Germany will promise independence and anything else to any State in Russia, and will accompany its promise with German conditions which will result in making Russia a German province. But no one seriously believes that Germany will be permitted to occupy Russia or any Russian territory at the conclusion of the war. Germany will be compelled to pay an indemnity for its crimes in Belgium and equally so for its conduct in northern France, so also will Germany be required to make good for all the losses which it has caused in Russia.

An intelligent propaganda earnestly conducted by the allies throughout Russia is the first necessary step. The financial and military encouragement of every faction in Russia devoted to the extermination of the German should be the immediate aim of the allies. As in the conduct of every great campaign the hour will come when active military aid will be solicited, and then the full mighty power of the allies should be freely given to the Russians.
